MONARCH SAYS ROOSEVELT'S 'BID' WELCOME

Tells Parliament Canadian Tour to Be Extended In 'Good Will' Gesture.

Tour to Be First Time British Rulers Set Foot on Soil Of Former Colony.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — King George VI told parliament today he had "been happy to accept" as an "expression" of Anglo-American good feeling President Roosevelt's invitation to visit the United States during the royal Canadian tour next spring.

The announcement was made by the gorgeously apparelled monarch from the throne in the House of Lords in an address opening the fourth session of the current parliament and the second of his reign.

King George

The soft light of the dim chamber gleamed on thousands of multi-colored jewelled decorations as the king declared:

"I have been happy to accept the invitation extended to the queen and myself by the president to visit the United States of America before the conclusion of my Canadian tour.

"I welcome this practical expression of good feeling that prevails between our countries."

Might Use Cruiser.

King George did not disclose how the North American trip would be made. There has been speculation on the possibility that the Hood, called the world's largest battle cruiser, might take him and the queen. It would be the first time a British sovereign ever set foot in a former colony.

An invitation to President Albert Lebrun of France to come to London next spring to repay a royal visit to Paris last July also was disclosed by the monarch.

Queen Elizabeth

The king viewed the British-Italian Easter friendship agreement, which is about to be brought into force, as a step in the furthering of the cause of European peace and said his government would "do all in their power to promote the development of good understanding in the spirit of the joint Anglo-German declaration made at Munich on the thirtieth of September last." (The understanding, reached by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Chancellor Adolf Hitler, declared "the desires of our two peoples never to go to war with one another again.")

Asserting that his ministers "deeply regret the continuance of hostilities in Spain," the king said they would lend assistance in any way toward the restoration of peace in that country.

Eight Men on Anxious Seat in Two States Today—Only Four Can Win

Ohio Chooses From These Four

Charles Sawyer (D)

John W. Bricker (R)

For Governor

Robert A. Taft (R)

Robert J. Bulkley (D)

For Senator

Of the elections in 47 states of the union today, none is being watched more closely than in Ohio and New York. In both, the prestige of the New Deal is at stake.

In Ohio, Charles Sawyer, Democrat, opposes John W. Bricker, Republican, for the governorship. Sawyer is a Democratic national committeeman. In the senate contest, Robert J. Bulkley, New Deal stalwart, is opposed by Robert A. Taft, sturdy Republican and son of a former president.

In New York, Senator Robert Wagner, ardent Rooseveltian, is opposed by John Lord O'Brian, New Deal critic, while for the governorship, Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, a prime Roosevelt favorite, is being opposed by the Youthful Tom Dewey, of racket prosecution fame.

POLICE TRAP 2 MEN IN BIZARRE EXTORTION PLOT

Intricate Plans by FBI Leads To Jail For N. Y. Pair In Demands For $20,000.

(By United Press)

BUFFALO — Federal agents said today they had confessions from two alleged extortionists as a result of their intricate and perfectly executed plans to trap the men who threatened to kill a young socialite and his mother if they did not meet a $20,000 demand.

The intended victims were Alexis C. Barbeau, wealthy, 28-year-old vice president of a manufacturing firm, and his mother, Mrs. Katherine Barbeau.

Those arrested were J. Catalano, 33, Buffalo, who at the time of his arrest was at liberty under $14,000 bail on a robbery charge, and Anthony L. DePasquale, 36, Silver Creek, who was on parole after serving a prison term for robbery.

White Flag Signal.

Barbeau, G-men said, received instructions Wednesday that he was to take a train from Buffalo to Erie on Saturday night. He was told to toss a package containing the money from the rear of the train when he saw a white flag at the side of the track.

Federal agents arranged for an airplane to fly over the train, arranged for a special car in which was set up radio equipment to keep contact with the planes and automobiles.

As the train roared through a desolate marsh region Barbeau spotted the flag. He tossed the dummy package on the track.

By prearrangement, two blasts of the whistle were blown; the plane dived at the location showed by floodlights, and radio operators flashed directions to the squad cars.

The squad first to reach the approximate location found a car parked at the roadside. Disabling the car, the searching party proceeded to the railroad tracks and came upon Catalano and DePasquale walking toward their automobile.

Sawyer's 5 to 4 Favorite In Wagers Posted In City

But Bricker Backers Snatch Up $2,000 In Bets Put on Foe for Governor; Even Money on Taft Waits.

Charles Sawyer, Democratic candidate for governor, was an odds-on choice to win the gubernatorial derby today—at least as far as Mansfield betting commissioners were concerned.

Odds posted in three downtown establishments today ranged from 5 to 4 to even money that Sawyer would top his Republican opponent, John W. Bricker, in one of the hottest "off year" gubernatorial races in the history of the state.

$1,000 Still Posted.

While more than $2,000 of the Sawyer money had already been gobbled up by Bricker backers at noon today, another $1,000 remained posted on the boards.

In one establishment where the betting ran high for Sawyer, no takers could be found on the even money placed on the Democratic candidate, and party backers shyed away from a $50 to $100 wager that Bricker and Robert A. Taft, Republican candidate for U. S. senator would both be elected.

Even money on Taft to best his Democratic opponent Robert J. Bulkley for the senate seat, and a 3 to 2 choice that Ralph C. Lutz, would return as Richland county representative to the general assembly also remain untaken.

FLORIDA EASED AS GALE VEERS

Weather Experts Say Hurricane Decreases In Intensity.

MIAMI, Fla.—(U.P.)—The tropical disturbance swirling through the Bahama Islands in the Atlantic gave indications today of decreasing intensity and the federal hurricane warning system announced "no precautions appear necessary on the southeast Florida coast except for small craft."

The warning system said the storm had been located a short distance northwest of Andros Island in the Bahamas. Storm warnings remained displayed on the Florida east coast between Key West and Cape Canaveral.

Charges Nation Stirs Up Fear Of German Complex.

BERLIN —(AP)—An organ of the German Foreign office today sharply attacked the United States, charging official and unofficial attempts to incite South American countries against Germany and to convince South Americans of "the evil intentions of the fascist states."

Deutsche Diplomatische - Politische Korrespondenz cited a radio address Sunday night by Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, and added:

"It is known that the United States will neglect nothing, especially in connection with the colonial question, to stir up a fear of Germany complex in South America."

(Welles declared the United States was prepared to join with other states of the new world in preserving the western hemisphere from "any threat of attack.)"

Both Parties Find Good Omens In Snowy Weather

It Won't Keep Farmers In, It'll Get Them Out, They Say—Both Claim Rural Vote.

Richland countians trudged to the polls through the season's first snow today as wintry blasts and election arrived together.

Both Democratic and Republican leaders saw an advantage in the snow and cold. They agreed that the wintry day would bring out a heavier rural vote, but each side contended the farmer vote would swing the tide of victory in its favor. Rain or snow on election day is traditionally known as "Democratic weather," or forecasting a Democratic victory.

G. A. Baer, Democratic central committee chairman, quoted the "Democratic weather" tradition and added that "the farmers will cast a heavier vote in bad weather, and the more votes there are, the larger the Democratic victory will be."

From the opposing camp, Ralph Hardy, county Republican executive committee head, predicted the heavier rural vote would benefit John W. Bricker, the party's candidate for governor, and Robert A. Taft, candidate for senator.

"We count on the rural vote to

POOR POLICY

Radio Networks Agree "Flash" In Dramas Causes Alarm.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Heads of three radio networks have expressed agreement that the words "flash" and "bulletin" should be used with discretion in dramatizing fiction.

After an informal conference with the three executives yesterday, Chairman Frank R. McNinch of the federal communications commission said they felt the attention-arresting words never should be used "where they might cause general alarm."

The commission recently received complaints after a broadcast dramatization of H. G. Wells' "War of the Worlds" in which the use of news bulletin technique caused some listeners to believe a fictitious invasion from Mars was a reality.

CALLANDER, Ont. — Canadian Press) — The Dionne quintuplets will have their tonsils and adenoids removed tomorrow with their own doctors, anxious to retain their confidence, keeping in the background.

Their medical guardian, Dr. Allan Dafoe explained the sisters would always associate pain with whoever performs the operation and as both Dr. Alan Brown, child specialist, and himself see the children so often he did not want them "to either fear or dislike us."

The country physician said the actual operations would be performed by "one of the best men in the medical profession."

25,000 EXPECTED TO CAST BALLOTS IN CITY, COUNTY

State Board Says Weather To Reduce Vote 10 Per Cent; 13,000 To Go To Polls In City, Survey Indicates, 6,000 Less Than Two Years Ago.

The first snow of the season put a damper on the election today.

It resulted in a light vote in Mansfield during the morning hours, and was expected to cut into the rural vote as well, not only in Richland county but in other sections of the state where the weather was inclement. Rain and snow were general over Ohio.

However, state election headquarters predicted that the bad weather would reduce the predicted 2,750,000 total vote for the state by less than 10 per cent, and George Balliett, chairman of the Richland county election board, said he did not believe the cut in Richland county would be more than 10 per cent. He had predicted a vote of 28,000, and revised his estimate downward to about 25,000.

A News-Journal survey of 20 of the city's 50 precincts at 10 a. m. today showed that 1,280 persons of a total registration of 7,339 had cast their ballots.

On that basis, calculations seemed to indicate a vote in the city of about 13,000 as compared with 19,000, an all-time high in the presidential election of 1936.

A heavy late vote, however, might send the city total above the 13,000 mark, although continued snow might keep many of the intended late voters at home.

In 1936, the vote in Richland county outside the city was 11,261. If that should show a decline in proportion to the indicated decline in the city, the total would run only slightly over 21,000, or 10,000 below the total for two years ago.

Party Leaders Optimistic.

ing to the rival state party leaders, as both stuck to their claims of victory.

"Rain or snow—nothing to lose or gain," said Arthur L. Limbach, Democratic state chairman. He predicted Sawyer would win "by 125,000 sure and maybe 200,000."

Ed D. Schorr, Republican state chairman, said "weather is no great hindrance any more," and forecast that Bricker would be victorious by 175,000."

Leaders of both parties in the county remained optimistic about both a heavy vote and a victory. They said the weather wouldn't have any great effect on the number of persons who would visit the polls before they closed at 6:30 p. m. today.

Holding chief interest today as it has throughout the campaign was the race between Charles Sawyer, Democrat, and John W. Bricker, Republican, for governor. In second place by only a slight margin was the contest between Senator Robert J. Bulkley, staunch New Dealer, and Robert A. Taft, Cincinnati Republican, for one of the two Ohio senate seats.

Nationally, the Bulkley-Taft contest held a great deal more interest than the Sawyer-Bricker race, since it would more definitely determine whether Ohio was still sympathetic to the New Deal.

Victory for Taft would be a hard blow to President Roosevelt, who has had an ardent supporter in Bulkley, and would give the Republican party a potential presidential candidate from Ohio for 1940. National Republican leaders saw Taft, the son of a former president, as a logical candidate for the 1940 presidential nomination.

Choose All State Officials.

Besides senator and governor, also to be chosen were all state officers excepting auditor, 24 congressmen, 36 state senators and 138 members of the state house of representatives, some supreme appelate and common pleas court judges and some county officials.

Richland county voters were to select a county commissioner and an auditor. The commissioner contest was between Clarence Mitchell, Democratic incumbent, and John C. Friday, a former Republican commissioner. Auditor Norman Wolfe, Democratic, had no opposition for re-election.

For county representative, Ralph C. Lutz, Lexington, Democrat, opposed Harry Maxwell, Mansfield, Republican. Lutz was seeking a third term.

For the fifth district appeals court, Judge Charles Montgomery

ROOSEVELT: Casts Vote In Little Town Hall At Hyde Park

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—(AP)—President Roosevelt gathered a few members of his family and close friends for his biennial visit to the polls today in Hyde Park's little white -boarded town hall.

His only advice to the far-flung electorate had been to be sure to pick candidates known for their experience and liberalism without regard to race, color or creed, and to:

"Judge parties and candidates, not merely by what they promise, but by what they have done, by their records in office, by the kind of people they travel with, by the kind of people who finance and promote their campaigns."

He had avoided an appeal for the general election of Democrats, as such, confining his blessing in this respect to the Democratic slate in his native state of New York, and a few scattered gubernatorial and senatorial candidates elsewhere.

The time the president voted depended on when Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived by plane from the west coast where she has been visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Boettiger of Seattle.

Come Snow, Rain or High Water, There's One Thing You Can Be Sure of—Election Party's 'on' Tonight

News-Journal Will Flash Returns on Screen on Walnut Street.

That good old axiom of determination—"in spite of h—and high water"—applies to The News-Journal's election party tonight. In fact, it will take a fair-sized earthquake or tornado to stop it.

So get out your galoshes, mittens and chest protectors and come down to Fourth and Walnut tonight, for the election returns will be flashed on the big screen across the street from The News-Journal building. The first returns should be available about 7 p. m.

The News-Journal's election night "party" has been a part of every election, primary and general, for years, and the weather, good or bad, will not stop it tonight.

From the time the first returns—city, county and national—come it, they will be flashed on the screen throughout the evening and well into the morning. In addition there will be a corps of operators to answer telephone inquiries.

The sudden change in the weather made it difficult this morning for judges and clerks in voting places to keep warm.

At precinct E of the First Ward, located in the S. A. Foltz garage, 135 Carpenter road, the voting was light and six workers spent their leisure time in plugging up cracks in the garage and otherwise trying to keep out the cold air.

The inclement weather did not daunt the spirits of party workers.

Questions Reliability Of Friend

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Six months ago I met a young man, who happened to make a business call on my employer. He said he fell in love with me at sight. I went out with him several times, and then he went back to his home office. Before leaving, however, he told me he was engaged and had expected to be married very soon. He said he had been engaged for several years, and that all plans had been made, even to selecting home and furniture.

He told me he really loved his fiancee until he met me, but felt that he'd made a mistake and would break his engagement.

We've been corresponding ever since, and I feel as if I love him, too. He always tells me he loves me, and has been to see me several times in this last six months. But what bothers me is this: How do I know he really is to be trusted? If he was so sure he loved this other girl and then changed his mind overnight, what could I expect? Should I continue this friendship or just drift away gently, and perhaps save myself the same heart-break he must have caused the other girl. He is 27 years; I am 22.

EDITH.

I'm not surprised, my dear, that you are in doubt about the steadfastness of a man who goes as far as selecting home and furniture for his coming marriage to another girl and then breaks the engagement, just because he fell in love with you at sight.

You do not tell me if, in the time that he has been coming to see you and corresponding, he has mentioned marriage or not. If he has not, I shouldn't take him seriously, nor consider myself bound in any way.

Why not just go along as you have in the past? If by the end of a year or so you still feel rather uncertain of him, and your plans are no more definite than at present, it would be a good plan to break away entirely.

Nifty knit number.

By VERA WINSTON

WOOL BECOMES smarter and smarter as it weaves its way into the smart frock brackets, what with knitted sweaters topping the smartest dinner and evening frocks. Here's a nifty knit number, a little dress of smoke-blue, herringbone-weave wool, with a knitted midriff section and knitted sleeves. A sleeveless bolero of the woolen stops right at the knit band through the middle. The skirt has a slight flare, being seamed front and back. The dress has a high, round neckline, like the bolero, with a knit band at the edge.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

If the circumstances had been different, if I had not stumbled upon the mystery in which Dicky and this highly-objectionable woman were involved, if I had thought her simply an insolent secretary, I should have told him everything unreservedly, sure of his excited wrath at any impertinence offered to me, sure, also, that he would have thanked me for uncovering so flagrant a breach of the decorum he demanded of an office employee.

But with the knowledge in my hands that the woman had some hold on Dicky which enabled her to threaten him, I could not discuss her with him.

"There is nothing mysterious about the message," I told him. "It is from your secretary."

"My secretary!" he exploded in patent stark amazement. "What in the hinges of the hot place—?"

He checked himself at full steam, and I answered quietly:

"I fancy it was my mistake, Dicky. She said she was from your office, and when I asked if she were Mr. Graham's secretary, she said she guessed that would do as well as any other word."

"The insolent—!" Dicky left whatever epithet he meant to use suspended in mid-air. "I'll kill her for bothering you. What else did she say?"

"She wanted to know where she could find you." I repeated the words as if they were a lesson I was reciting. "She was quite perturbed when I said I could not tell her that. I told her that I would get in touch with you as soon as possible and deliver her message. She said that it was a matter of life or death, and was most insistent that I give her a number where she could reach you."

"It'll be a matter of life or death to her when I next get hold of her," Dicky promised grimly. "And you did exactly right, only you didn't go far enough. You should have slammed down the receiver at the first insolent word and refused to speak to her again. That's the only way to deal with cattle like her."

Tells Dicky Falsehood.

"I told her that she must not call me up again," I said quietly.

Dicky stared at me open-mouthed.

"You did!" he repeated blankly. Then his face darkened.

"She must have said something pretty raw for you to have done that," he said. "Come on! Out with it! I want to know what she said to you."

"Really, Dicky, you are mistaken," I lied. "She didn't say anything that mattered. But she was rather rudely insistent, and I had the feeling that you might not want her to talk to me here."

"I should say I don't!" he said fiercely. "If she ever calls you again, slam down the receiver and tell the operator to say you are not in whenever she calls. The unmitigated gall of her! Oh! By the way, did she give you her name?"

"DARK VICTORY" will give Bette Davis another one of those tragic roles in which she is so frequently cast because she is a good enough actress to make them sincere and convincing. She will be seen as a normal young girl with a great deal of money and everything to make her happy until she falls down a flight of stairs and receives a bump that starts a brain tumor. And then she is told that she has just so many months to live. The picture is being made at Warners studio.

Youth Is Served.

Youth has its day in "Brother Rat," current Ohio theater attraction, for there are no 30-year-old co-eds or cadets in this comedy made at the Virginia Military Institute. There are approximately 1,000 players in it, counting the extras, and the average age of the players is 20. Wayne Morris and Priscilla Lane, the principals, are 24 and 21 respectively. It is a film version of the stage hit.

New School vs. Old.

The re-issue of the Rudolph Valentino picture, "Son of the Sheik," is attracting considerable attention at the Park. Not only does it bring back the greatest box office attraction and screen personality of screen history, but it provides an opportunity to compare the old silent films with the modern talking product, especially the old school of acting with the new. The second feature is the Ritz Brothers, Alice Faye and Don Ameche in "You Can't Have Everything."

Lemon Addition To Flavors

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

THE GOOD chef would refuse to prepare a single dish if he had to do without lemons, for a lemon is essential to the success of almost every dish. One of the finest cooks in the country told us that many a time lemon juice has saved the day for him. And so, today's recipes all use lemon as a basic ingredient.

First off, we offer a marvelous sauce to serve on hot steak, chops or fish. Two tablespoons lemon juice, three tablespoons butter, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon paprika, and one tablespoon parsley finely chopped, will serve four. All the ingredients should be well blended This lemon butter is especially good for fish not rich in fats.

Chops With Lemon.

Lemon smothered chops should be on your menu. To serve six or eight, get two pounds pork or lamb chops, cut thick. Put in large, covered skillet or chicken fryer. Cover top of meat closely with two unpeeled lemons, sliced; one large, sweet onion, cut in rings; green pepper, cut in rings and one teaspoon salt. Pour over all two cups tomato juice. Dot with flakes of fat cut from meat, or butter. Cover and cook on top of stove one and one-half hours or until done. Lift onto a hot platter being careful to keep lemon, onion and pepper slices in place.

If you want to serve a de luxe steak, let it stand overnight in a mixture of one-third lemon juice, one-half cup salad oil, two teaspoons onion juice or scraped onion and one tablespoon Worcestershire sauce. Broil or pan-fry.

Vegetables with lemon tempt indifferent appetites. Lemon butter is grand with okra, broccoli, cauliflower, string beans and carrots. Cream together one-half cup lemon juice, two tablespoons softened butter, one-half teaspoon paprika and dash of sugar for certain vegetables, if desired. Serve this over three cups hot diced vegetables.

Cabbage With Lemon.

Lemon buttered cabbage, to the tune of four servings, requires one quarter cup melted butter and two tablespoons lemon juice. Blend and pour over a small head of cabbage that has been cut in eighths and boiled for 10 minutes

Lemon celery victor is bound to be the victor on any dinner menu. One stalk celery, tender portions, or three celery hearts should be cut into desired lengths (one to four inches). Parboil in salted water 10 minutes. Drain. Cool 10 to 15 minutes longer in a broth made by combining one pint beef broth or consomme, teaspoon celery seed, six pepper corns, four tiny dry red peppers, teaspoon salt, tablespoon sugar, one large or two small lemone, cut in thin slices, and one-quarter cup minced pimento. Marinate until cold. Drain off liquid retaining spices and lemon slices. It's grand as an appetizer or meat accompaniment.

Lemon egg-nog is a splendid drink for the convalescent for anyone needing concentrated nourishment in a pleasant form. Beat one egg white stiff with one tablespoon sugar. Fold three-quarters of this mixture into one egg yolk, beaten will with two tablespoons lemon juice and one tablespoon sugar Pour into a tall glass. Fill almost to the top with fresh or evaporated milk and, after stirring well, top with remainder of egg white.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Nov. 9.

Very lively and interesting conditions are foreseen from the predominant planetary influences. These are forecast not only in business relations, but in social, domestic and affectional matters. All forms of enterprise and initiative are under vivid if not hectic impetus, and great things in the way of attaining objectives are to be expected.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of excellent promises, with all the forces and faculties keyed up to great pitch for initiative and accomplishment. Diary of a Fashion Model

Swell tweed number.

WHAT a marvelous experience a flight to Bermuda is! Of course, the journey by boat is wonderful, too, but it can't approach the air ride.

We left the base at Long Island in the morning and we were in Bermuda for early afternoon tea. We had a nice lunch aloft while soaring over the Atlantic, which looked as calm as a mill pond. There were three honeymoon couples on the trip, and the officers told us this was the usual thing. They ought to be called the Cupid Clippers. But Consuelo attracted all the attention, even the newlyweds being interested in her and wanting to talk to her Divine in Bermuda.

Anyway, here we are in Bermuda and it is divine. Several Americans have built lovely houses on various parts of the island and they are so kind and hospitable. There were invitations awaiting us at the hotel; I say "us" but I mean Consuleo. I am just an also-ran, I guess.

This is a grand week-end and I only wish that I could do this several times during the winter if I stay in town. I really hate the thought of going back. We went down by the American ship and we are going back by the English line. We are told that there's little to choose between them, for both lines are perfect. We met several people who use the airships almost every week-end. Haviug an island home and visiting it at the week-end is my idea of something extra special.

Put It On Map.

Americans have put Bermuda on the map as a tourist resort and spend most of the money there. The stores are just jammed with tourists who buy all sorts of things and, believe me, every boat brings a lot of money to town. I bought myself some tweeds and sweaters, and Consuelo just seemed to buy out the stores. I told her no one would ever think that we had recently arrived from Europe. But, somehow, we both enjoyed shopping more in Bermuda than we had in Europe.

Talking of tweeds, here's a swell tweed dress that boasts its own hood. The hood is dropped in back when not being used. Two flap pockets connect to two slit pockets by piped seaming. It is done in a soft, grayblue, nubby tweed.

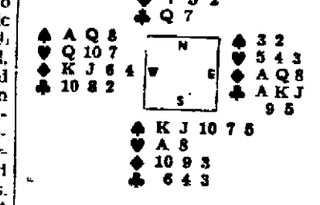
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

SEEK ANOTHER PATH

IF THE DECLARER bid no trump over your partner's suit, it is wise to look for some other means of setting the hand. If you hold a five-card suit with one of the two top honors you may find your partner with the other top. In this case leading it may annihilate the queen which declarer counted on as probable stopper.



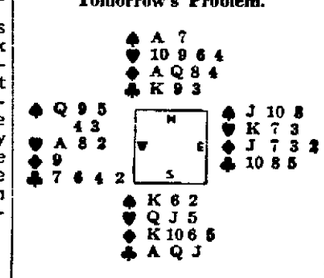
(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East began the auction on this deal with a bid of 1-Club. South overcalled with 1-Spade. After 1-No Trump by West, East jumped to 3-Clubs and West bid 3-No Trump.

North's problem was what to lead against the bidding that had taken place. He felt that West's overcall of No Thump after South's spade bid no doubt indicated that West held at least two spade stoppers. These with East's solid clubs would probably produce game, as his own club Q would no doubt be picked up.

Instead of opening up the spade suit, North reasoned that hearts would furnish a better line of attack. If South held the heart A, which he might in view of his overcall, and West held the Q, that card might be trapped and five tricks taken in that suit before the opponents gained control. His reasoning paid big dividends, for his side defeated East-West, whereas the spade opening would have netted them eleven tricks.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

What is the correct defense against three no trump if South takes the second spade lead in dummy and then leads a heart?

Get Busy With Tiny Lines Now

By MME. QUI VIVE

Take out beauty insurance. Look ahead. Old age may have a beauty of its own but we don't want it before our time. To the woman of twenty, ten years seems like a century, but they roll along.

Before the thirty mark comes every woman should take such excellent care of her complexion that lines won't get a chance to settle there.

To keep the complexion in condition it is necessary to feed it oils in the form of creamy cosmetics, to exercise the tiny skin fibers by consistent regular manipulations of the flesh. One can use the finger tips or a patter. If no lines have appeared the patter will serve.

Nobody will deny that massage, properly given, is strengthening. A withered arm can be improved by kneading, stroking, palming. Massage is a natural curative.

Before frictioning in the emollient the skin surface must be clean. The warm facial tubbing leaves the flesh in a glowing, receptive condition. No moisture must remain. Dry briskly with a soft towel.

Rub frown lines crosswise, treat them to a quick rotary movement with the first finger. Furrows extending across the forehead call for the same form of treatment.

Sweep around the eyes to delete turky tracks, starting on the inner point of the upper lid. Parenthesis lines extending from the nostrils to lip ends must be picked up in quick little nips, starting at the lower points.

Watch for fine lines in front of the ears They may be forerunners of worse to come. Tissues are soft there, easily depleted. Take time by the cowlick. Get busy!

If Over-weight Or Under-weight Consult a Doctor

By John C. Davis, Druggist

Physical perfection has always been one of the ideals of humanity. This is quite natural for with health one has vigor, efficiency, enjoys life and has the power to succeed.

Proper weight is one of the greatest factors in health and physical perfection. To be overweight is to be sluggish, prone to heart trouble, abnormal blood pressure. To be underweight is to suffer from nerves, infections, irritability.

Physicians advice is invaluable in the maintenance of proper weight. Theirs the safe rule to follow.

For such medication as they may prescribe patronize a conscientious druggist.

To Get the Best Cough Remedy, Mix It at Home

Real Relief. Big Saving So Easy. No Cooking.

This famous recipe is used by millions of housewives, because it makes such a dependable, effective remedy for coughs that start from colds. It's so easy to mix—a child could do it.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its effect on throat and bronchial membranes.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. It's no trouble at all, and takes but a moment. No cooking needed.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of very effective and quick-acting cough remedy, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be amazed by the way it takes hold of coughs, giving you delightful relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

FIRE HAZARDS IN HOME CUT BY MODERNIZATION

Sound Building Methods Help to Reduce Chances of Loss, Administrater Says.

The proper modernization of property and sound practices in building contribute toward reducing fire hazards, according to Administrator Stewart McDonald of the Federal Housing administration.

Fire frequency may be reduced considerably through alterations and repairs to residential and income-producing properties, the administrator said. Under FHA's Property Improvement Credit plan, financial institutions qualified under the plan make adequate credit available for such improvements.

The best way to guard against the danger of fire, from a construction standpoint, is by careful application of sound building methods at the outset. Many factors which minimize the chance of loss through fire are taken into consideration in the minimum construction requirements which residential properties must comply with to be eligible for financing with FHA-insured mortgages.

Among the causes of thousands of dollars of damage done to property each year are faulty wiring, faulty gas systems, and neglect of attics, nooks, and other recesses where spontaneous combustion may work its havoc.

McDonald pointed out, also, that a soundly built home offers a natural resistance to fire. Proper maintenance of existing structures, through annual improvement where it is needed, also helps combat the menace of fire.

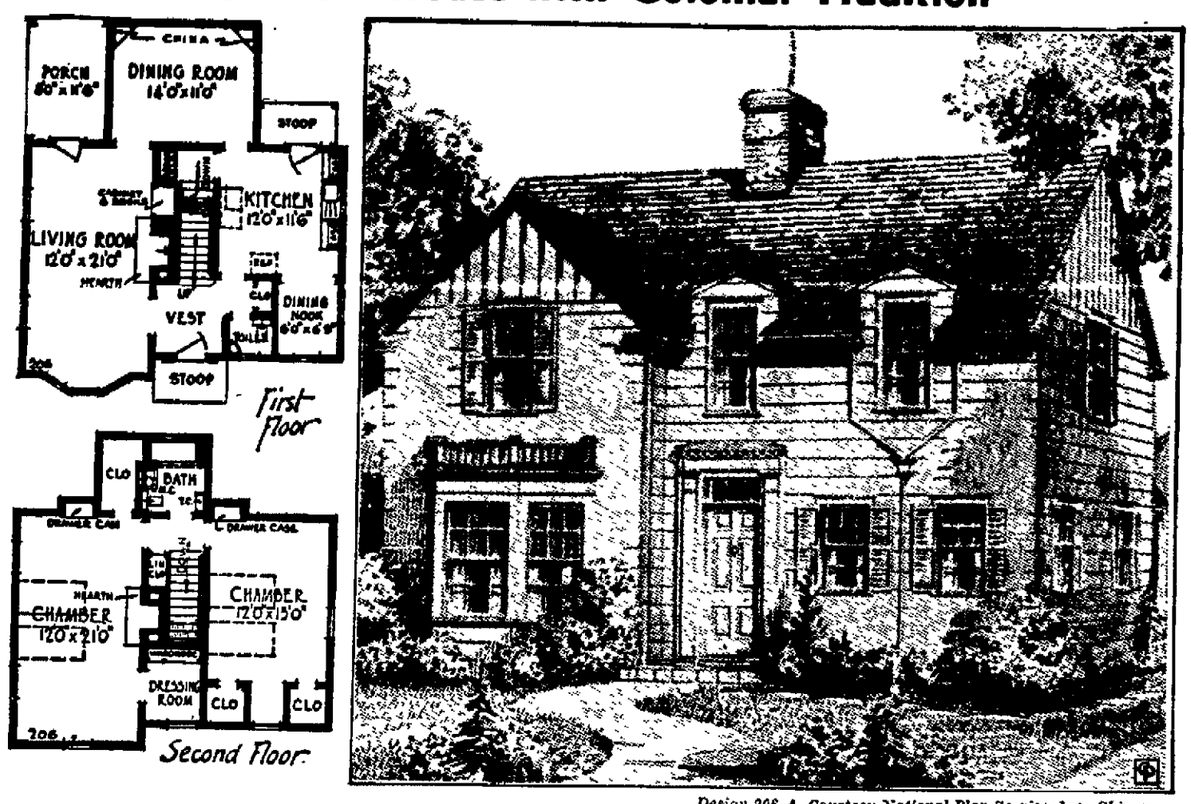
5-Room House with Colonial Tradition



Design 206-A, Courtesy National Plan Service, Inc., Chicago

Early American type frame house of five rooms, showing exterior and floor plans.

(By Central Press)

The design of this five-room house is in keeping with early American traditions. It is substantial looking, but has a homelike charm reminiscent of the colonial period.

The large living room has a fireplace and built-in bookcases, also a bay window. A porch opens from it on the back of the house. A dining nook is located across the hall from the living room, on the front of the house, and the hall contains a closet for wraps and a toilet. The kitchen is back of the dining nook, and the dining room is on the back of the house, adjacent to the porch.

The master bedroom over the living room also contains a fireplace, a dressing room, and a closet; the other bedroom, almost as large, has two clothes closets. The bathroom is at the rear.

The size of this building is 31 feet 6 inches by 33 feet 6 inches; size over all, 33 feet by 36 feet. It contains 22,200 cubic feet exclusive of porches, which contain 800 cubic feet, making 23,000 cubic feet in all.

Senior High Sets Back-to-School Night For Nov. 14

Mansfield Senior high school will hold its annual Back-to-School night Monday, Nov. 14, Jesse Beer, principal, announced today.

The event is being sponsored by the school's faculty and Parent-Teacher association. On that evening faculty members will be in their rooms to confer with parents and explain to them the work being done in their classes, Beer said.

Back-to-School night will be the Senior High's observance of National Education Week which is being held throughout the country this week.

A committee of faculty members and students making plans for the special night includes Zane Wilson, chairman, Miss Pearl Danback, Miss Leota Hunter, Miss Ruth Dunham, J. Merton Holcombe, H. D. Bishop, H. R. Kinker, Joan Locke, Raymond Bush and Marjorie Mahon.

BEFORE PAINTING BRICK

Before painting a new brick building, it is often advisable to neutralize the lime in the mortar by going over the walls with a water wash of zinc sulphate. A mixture of spar varnish and house paint made on a good linseed oil base, makes a priming coat. Follow this with a coat or two of good quality house paint in the color desired.

SMALL HOME BUILDERS PROFIT BY EMPLOYING ARCHITECTS

Many operative builders as well as individuals are of the opinion that in erecting a small, low-priced home they cannot afford the additional cost of a competent architect's service. In many cases there would be no "extra cost" but, on the contrary, an actual saving as well as an increase in the functional efficiency of the home, according to Howard Leland Smith, chief of the architectural section of the Federal Housing administration.

Mail-order house plans are not always complete, and they cannot take into consideration problems peculiar to a particular lot, says Mr. Smith. Moreover, specifications are standardized without taking into consideration the condition of local material prices.

When an architect is employed he takes over the worries that are attendant on building a house. Being familiar with local conditions, he can effect any possible savings. The plans and specifications that he furnishes are made especially for the individual house, and no makeshift changes are necessary.

By merely eliminating unnecessary features and correctly planning the interior, the architect will frequently manage to save a greater amount of money than his services will call for, and his supervision and inspection of construction will assure the owner of getting what he pays for from the contractor.

Whenever it is financially possible for the builder of a small, low-priced home to afford the services of a competent architect, the Federal Housing administration recommends that he do so.

Planning Book Available to General Public

Problems facing land developers who desire to preserve land values and the development of stable communities are discussed in the latest FHA publication, "Planning Profitable Neighborhoods," prepared by the land planning section of the Federal Housing administration.

The publication, known as Technical bulletin No. 7, is now being distributed to all insuring offices of the FHA and to city and state planning commissions.

The bulletin stresses the points that subdivisions planned as neighborhoods are more profitable to developers, provide better security for investors, and are more desirable to the potential home-buying public.

Individual copies of the bulletin may be obtained by private individuals from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., for 20 cents each.

Pensions, Labor Laws Top Interest in Dozen States

'$30 THURSDAY' UP FOR TEST IN CALIFORNIA

Oregon Votes on Amendment To Adopt Townsend Plan And 2 Per Cent Tax.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Two lively issues—old age pensions and labor legislation—encountered a direct test of public opinion today in nearly a dozen states.

Millions of voters were asked to pass on state constitutional amendments or laws dealing with those and other vital subjects.

Some political leaders, eager for indications of national trends, were more interested in the results of this balloting than in the voters' choice of congressmen and state officials.

California's unique "$30-every-Thursday" proposal held top national interest in the pensions balloting. More than 1,000,000 Californians signed the petition which placed the scheme before the electorate.

Tax Redeems Script.

It would provide the weekly issuance of $30 in state warrants to non-working, elderly residents. A weekly tax of two per cent would be designed to redeem the script in a year.

Advocates contended the proposal would bring security to elderly Californians and prosperity to the state. Opponents replied that it was a Utopian "funny money dream" that either would collapse of its own weight or soon would bankrupt the state.

The Townsend pension plan was tested by Oregon voters. They voted on whether to ask a national constitutional convention to adopt the system. They also passed on a proposal to levy a 2 per cent "transactions tax" to finance $100 monthly pensions for Oregonians 65 and over.

Colorado voters reviewed the $45 monthly pension program they inserted in the state's constitution in 1936. Repeal advocates contended it had hurt state finances.

$40 Proposal Up.

North Dakotans voted on a $40 monthly pension proposal for oldsters, while Missouri balloted on two pension measures. One asked lowering of the age minimum from 70 to 65 years. The other would provide pensions for everyone 65 and over by revising the state's financial setup.

New Yorkers decided whether to amend the state constitution by authorizing use of state funds for insurance against hazards of old age and unemployment.

Organized business and civic leaders sought a drastic anti-picketing law in California. Labor unions fought it, declaring it was an attempt to destroy their organizations.

Oregon voters acted on a similar measure while Washington state citizens considered a proposal designed to forestall strikes. It would require written notice to an employer by dissatisfied workers and would provide a 30-day period for mediation.

Dust Footprint, Cement Particles Send Two To Pen

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — A footprint in the dust below a window ledge and a few microscopic particles of cement taken from a pants cuff today sent two men to Ohio penitentiary.

A jury of seven women and five men convicted Phil Sheridan, 31, of Youngstown, and George Ciano, 36, of Chicago, in Common Pleas Judge George P. Baer's court on the scientific evidence prepared by David L. Cowles, police ballistics expert.

The two men were accused of being members of a gang which burglarized the M. J. Ming company July 23 when two safes were opened and $1,000 worth of jewelry stolen.

A plaster cast taken of the footprint matched the left shoe of Sheridan. Dust taken from the cuff of Ciano's pants was found to be part of the fireproofing from the Ming safe. Frederick C. Emery, chemist for the Harshaw Chemical company, testified he heated the dust particles until they became gas and then photographed the colored fumes. They matched perfectly fumes from filler in the safe.

Seeks to Ban Political Use of U. S. Funds

Up and Down THE STREET

Suzanne and Betty, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sotherland, 168 Western avenue, were more than a little concerned about their pet dog "Corky" who has been missing for nearly a week, when they saw those big snowflakes today. They were hoping that the little black and white springer spaniel will at least be given a warm place to sleep and something to eat until they can locate him.

Years are no protection against that bugaboo disease of children, mumps, for it has a 91-year-old Mansfielder as a victim. Mrs. Nannie Blair, 105 Sturges avenue, is confined to her home with the painful illness, and while she is not complaining, she would like to know where she "picked them up."

If you believe in signs "smallpox" broke out in Senior High school yesterday despite the fact that all students are supposed to be vaccinated against the disease. A forbidding sign of SMALLPOX appeared on the door of Instructor Margaret Tinsley's classroom. But it was only an ingenuous effort on the part of a history class to keep students from coming into the room during recitations.

Pupils in Mansfield and Richland county schools will observe Armistice day in their classrooms, school officials had decided today after E. N. Dietrich, state director of education, warned them that any time lost Friday would have to be made up later. "Although Armistice day has been made a legal holiday throughout the nation, it is not a legal school holiday," the state director said. Supt. W. L. Miller of Mansfield schools said Armistice programs would be presented Friday in all of the city's schools.

PLAN BANQUET

Mother-and-Son Event Will Be Sponsored by Club.

Plans for a mother and son banquet were made at a meeting of the Senior Hi-Y club last night at the Y. M. C. A.

No date was selected for the event. A committee made up of Don Finefrock, chairman, Robert Roth and Richard McMullen was appointed to select a date and place and a committee made up of Thomas Scott and Edward Umbarger was named to plan a program for the banquet.

The club will stage an assembly program at Senior high school sometime before Thanksgiving. Charles McClure, William Layton and Harold Duda were named to work out an assembly program.

RED CROSS SET FOR ROLL CALL

Annual Dinner Thursday Night At Westinghouse Cafeteria To Open 22nd Campaign.

The annual Red Cross dinner which opens the 22nd Roll Call in Richland county, will be held at 6:30 p. m. Thursday on the eve of Armistice day at the Westinghouse cafeteria.

An elaborate program has been planned by Mrs. V. E. Vining, dinner chairman, and will be presented on the stage in the Westinghouse auditorium. Music for the dinner, a dramatic sketch and a tableau, the latter to be a surprise feature, will be furnished by a group from the High school band, Eugene Smart's band and the American Legion Drum corps. Red Cross work will be the theme of the program.

Five minute talks will be given by William J. Locke, Roll Call chairman, who will tell of the aims of the Richland county chapter; Harker A. Enlow, director of first aid; Mrs. Schuyler Zackman on Red Cross county work; Dr. D. D. Deeds on "Red Cross in the Medical Profession;" Mrs. Anna Fish of Shelby on Shelby's record in the chapter, and Charles Burge, a Junior Red Cross member.

Registrations for the dinner are being received at the chapter office.

Emmer, guarde de la ports; Walter L. Hill, lampiste; Carlton Fields, commiss vayageur; Winfield Bonnell, Walter L. Beckley and Arthur F. Busch, cheminets.

The 40 and 8 is the social organization of the American Legion. The new officers were elected last month.

BURIAL HERE

Body of Miss Rossington, Former Resident, To Be Returned.

The body of Miss Minnie Rossington, 76, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rossington, formerly of Mansfield, will be brought to this city for burial in the Mansfield Catholic cemetery Wednesday. The body will arrive at 10:30 a. m. and will be taken directly to the cemetery where brief services will be held. Funeral services were held in St. Louis, where she died Sunday, today.

The survivors include four cousins in Mansfield, Mrs. George Wintersteen, Mrs. Edward Bosch, Miss Julia Driscoll and John Driscoll.

SWELL JOBS, THESE CONGRESS POSTS, $10,000 YEARLY AND—

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — In America's biennial campaign for congressional jobs, just about everything is arranged except the important feature of telling the winners where and when to report for work.

Imagine getting a new job that yields:

$10,000 a year.

A Washington address for two years if you're a representative, and six if you're a senator.

A high-sounding title.

Reduced rates for the Army-Navy football game.

And—nobody going to the trouble to tell you when to show up for duty.

Democratic Chairman James A. Farley telephones, telegraphs, or sends a letter of congratulations to his party's successful candidates, but nary a note about when the starting whistle blows.

Republican Chairman John D. M. Hamilton also rushes out the bouquets, but he doesn't even hint that work begins early in January in Washington.

Somehow the successful candidate—if he hasn't been here before finds his way to the capital. However:

Nobody sends him a road map if he comes by auto.

Nobody sends him traveling money if he comes by train, boat or plane. (Later, however, he can collect 20 cents a mile.)

No official meets him.

Nobody shows him to his new office.

It does seem as if somebody ought to send him a note:

"Dear Sir, or Madam: Kindly report for your new assignment January 3, at the capital of the United States in Washington, D. C., not later than noon."

Strictly speaking, even such a letter might leave a new congressman in a fuddle, because the capitol, of all places, does not have a street address.

WOMAN, 75, HURT IN FALL

RECESSES TRIAL

Judge Sends Irwin Case Jury Home For Election Day.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Underway only one day, the often-postponed trial of Robert Irwin, confessed slayer of artists' model Ronnie Gedeon and two others, was recessed today until Thursday, when selection of 9 more jurors and 2 alternates will be resumed.

Laying the groundwork for an insanity plea by the so-called "mad sculptor," whose three murders on Easter, 1937, are admitted, defense counsel Samuel Leibowitz questioned veniremen sharply yesterday.

After three jurors had passed the exacting tests of Leibowitz and Assistant District Attorney Jacob Rosenblum, general sessions Judge James Wallace ordered a recess for both election day and Wednesday.

SENATOR MAPS 3-PLY PLAN OF RESTRICTIONS

Thorough Revision of Election Laws Favored by Both Dems, G.O.P. In Senate.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex) said today the senate campaign committee in drafting recommendations to congress would consider a proposal to outlaw political use of federal funds.

The proposal, he said, contemplates a specific prohibition not only against using WPA funds or influence in elections, but also federal money allocated to state governments.

He listed three other problems as among the most important to be considered at a committee meeting late this month:

1. Congressional control of primary campaign expenditures.
2. Clarification of the law governing contributions to candidates by federal employes.
3. Restriction of the franking privilege to prevent its use in political campaigns.

Both Sides Agree.

From both Republicans and Democrats came assurances of support in the senate for any legislation by the committee to eliminate corruption in elections.

Senator Borah (R-Ida) said he believed thorough revision of existing laws would be necessary. Senator Donahey (D-Ohio) said he would support any attempt to regulate political contributions by federal employes.

Senator Sheppard said a revision of the corrupt practices act might be adequate to give congress control over primary campaign expenditures, although a constitutional amendment to accomplish this also has been suggested.

(The supreme court has ruled that primary elections were subject solely to state regulation, but the vote was four to four, with one justice not participating).

Donahey suggested that congress might permit federal employes to contribute voluntarily to candidates' campaign funds but might set a limit for such contributions.

This point has been in controversy since the senate committee ruled that federal employes could contribute only to state or national party funds, not directly to a candidate or to his campaign committee.

FAIR ENOUGH!

We Haven't Struck Dead End Even If New Deal Is Beaten at Polls Today

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Bruce Barton, who seems to be squinting down the bar'l at the presidency, passed some remarks in a piece in Collier's recently which describe better than any other effort that I have seen the mental attitude of some of the big-name New Dealers and of the New Deal itself.

Mr. Barton perceived in the Washington administration "a distressing growth of that malady that may be termed 'the intolerance of the well-doer'."

He said that, as a boy, in a country parsonage, where the spare room and the table conversation generally were monopolized by some reformer, he observed that "No man can so cheerfully eat of his neighbor's food, make extra cooking and cleaning for his neighbor's wife, use his neighbor's vehicle and force sacrifices on his neighbor's children as the man who is bent on reforming the world."

"I discovered," Mr. Barton wrote, "that nobody can be quite so intolerant, no one can so cheerfully sow such seeds of violent hate, as he who is completely convinced of his own righteousness. Each of these workers feels in his own heart that he has made a financial sacrifice to pursue his particular line of human betterment—sure that if he himself had devoted his talent to moneymaking he would have achieved a fortune.

"He convinces himself that he is entitled to special thanks from the community and sometimes attains the highly satisfying conviction that the purity of his motives justifies any means."

Parts of this quoted matter suggest the figure of Mr. Harold Ickes, who gets $15,000 a year, but when he felt the need of a rest cure, put himself away in the Naval hospital at $3.75 a day.

More meaty is the challenge to the idea that because the New Deal is composed of consecrated men—if it is—the removal of those men from office and power would be a step toward some dreadful national fate.

Such an idea has been put forward lately, preferring to believe that if the New Deal were turned out in 1940 and a Republican or a fusionist government were installed, the gains of the New Deal would be consolidated and improved and business would leap at the chance to employ people.

I can't believe that everything is staked on the continuance of the New Deal and the re-election of President Roosevelt or the election of someone proposed by him. And I do believe that there are several men, not Fascists or Communists, not bigots or rabble-rousers, any of whom could turn in a good performance as president of the United States.

The New Deal presumes to outlaw as un-Americans almost all those who actively oppose it on any phase, and that obviously can't be so. The old way has been left behind, but there were good men then and there are still good men, intelligent and efficient and as patriotic and devoted to democracy as any New Dealer, who could carry on the government without resort to hatred.

I don't know what sort of business man it is who can believe in Nazi-Fascism. There must be some, of course, just as there are New Dealers who believe in measures of regimentation borrowed from both Nazi-Fascism and Communism, but think of themselves as pure Democrats. But any business man or any employe who has listened even an hour to the story of the isms knows that the American system is best.

It wasn't agreed when Mr. Roosevelt was elected and re-elected that the New Deal was to be a dead end, and I don't believe it is.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Hollywood never turns its searchlight off.

You can count on it. Year in, year out, the town is searching. It wouldn't be Hollywood without a search.

Latest face the light shone on, with triumph, was Sidney Toler's. Why they had to search for Toler, who's been around nearly ten years making movies, is inexplicable, except in Hollywood. They had tested 34 actors to replace Warner Oland as Charlie Chan before Toler. It just happened that Sol Wurtzel saw him at the right moment. So it develops that a Scot will take up where a Swede left off—in playing a Chinese.

The searchlight still plays on, however. It has found a Chan, but what about a Tarzan junior? Metro wants a 5-year-old who can swing from trees, rassle animals, swim and cut up like his screen daddy Johnny Weissmuller.

The grandma of all searches, by now, is Selznick's. He's been looking for a heroine for that Civil war novel whose name eludes me presently. Gable's the hero, of course, and Norma Shearer was the gal—but only temporarily. Until Selznick names Lombard, or Paulette Goddard finally, you can say the search is still on. If you care to say.

It's a funny thing, but Hollywood's searchlight always, in the end, gets its man, girl or child. It has to succeed. Somebody always plays that part. And it has started many a career. Weissmuller's was one. Weissmuller hasn't played any but Tarzan roles, but he seems to have made it impossible for anyone else to play the ape-man. Glenn Morris, another searchee, lasted as ape-man only briefly.

Swimmer Larry Crabbe, when he was plain "Buster," left the water for the studios because Paramount needed a Lion Man. For long now, Larry's been out of the jungle. Gail Patrick, a runner-up in another search—for a Panther Woman—never got into the wilds at all but has done better in pictures than Kathleen Burke, who won the contest.

Jon Hall in "The Hurricane" was the result of an informal though wide search. Another search product is attracting attention during shooting of "The Pure in Mind" at RKO. He's Roger Daniel, an orphan boy from nearby Glendale. This is his first big role. In the same picture is Anne Shirley, who was the answer to prayers for an "Anne of Green Gables."

In "Angles With Dirty Faces" there's a "young Cagney" whose resemblance in appearance and speech to the one and only Cagney is amazing. He's a searchee, too. He'd been in training for the role for four years, although neither he nor the studio knew it until the call went out. Frankie Burke had given up hope that his ability to impersonate Cagney would land him in films. He was a hotel bell hop in Las Vagas when he heard about the picture opportunity.

It looks from this end, though, as if he's had his day in the sun—unless they write more film stories requiring juvenile Cagneys.

ILL TWO YEARS, SUCCUMBS AT 50

Mrs. Eva Kern, Franklin Township, Lived in County 49 years.

Mrs. Eva Metzger Kern, 50, wife of Lloyd Kern, died at the home in Franklin township today following an illness of more than two years. She was born in Limrock, Ala., Jan. 26, 1888, and resided in this vicinity 49 years.

The survivors include a son, Howard; her mother, Mrs. John Metzger; a sister, Mrs. Mary Wentz, and a brother, John Metzger of Mansfield. She was a member of the First Lutheran church.

The body was removed to the Finefrock funeral home where services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday with Rev. Milton Englehart, assistant pastor of the First Lutheran church, officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

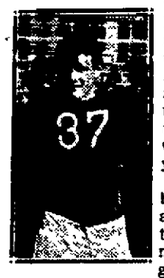
Massillon Really Draws 'Em

Chatlain Ranked with Best

Shelby Seeks Rhodesmen

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

SKIPPING OVER THE CHALKLINES: Massillon's undefeated Tigers have played before 84,000 fans in eight games to date. The figure will be increased to about 110,000 before they ring down the curtain, with the Canton McKinley game expected to draw 17,000. Only the major college clubs draw more spectators than Massillon . . . Shelby will be a deserted city Friday night when the Whippets travel to Galion to see what they can do about winning the N. C. O title. A new attendance record for Heise field appeared assured . . . About all one can say about Pittsburgh's upset by Carnegie Tech is that Doc Sutherland taught Bill Kern not wisely but too well when he was giving the Skibo boss his grid lessons some years ago.



E. Dials.

Our own Ed Chatlain and Rankin are being boasted as the greatest pair of ends ever to grace a Wittenberg eleven. That's a mouthful of praise, too. Wittenberg has turned out some great grid men . . . Shelby's search for a post-season game is getting nowhere rapidly. Wooster and Bellevue have turned down bids for a game with the Whippets, and now Shelby authorities are looking in the direction of John Rhodes of Cleveland, undefeated in 24 straight games. And unless Rhodes has played no more than one road game thus far this season, it cannot accept. Cleveland teams are permitted only two road games each year.

Only one of the 26 men on Otterbein college's grid squad was good enough to win a letter in high school . . . Neither Indiana nor Texas have won a ball game this season, but Bo McMillin and Dana Bible are not worried. They own 10-year contracts. They should be able to do better in the next nine falls. At least, they can't do any worse . . . Biff Jones is not as lucky at Nebraska. He'll be looking at the want ads if he fails to do better next year.

Reports have Bobby Cifers, who has scored more than 200 points for Kingsport, Tenn., high this autumn, going to Northwestern, where the great De Correvont is a freshman . . . Illinois prep schools have a football rule imposing a penalty against the teams whose players engage "in looks or acts which engender ill will against officials" . . . Kent Pfeiffer of Columbus, who has officiated at many Mansfield high athletic contests, will retire this year after 25 years of officiating.

Old Knee Injury Again Handicaps Dials.

AN upset is nothing but the opinion of the man who picked the loser, according to Michigan's "Old Man" Yost . . . Elmer Dials, who has been showing the way to all freshmen ends at Ohio State, is limping again because of the recurrence of an old knee injury. There has been some talk of using a knife on the lame member . . . Dick McMullen, Mike Horvath and Foster Dials are present Tygers who are following in the footsteps of illustrous brothers. Dick is a brother of Frank and Earl, Mike of Alex, Andy and John and Foster of Elmer. And, we understand, there is another Horvath coming up in another year.

Our special No. 1 prediction of the week: Minnesota over Notre Dame . . . Bill Mead just learned from the Circleville sheet how that Greenfield back was able to score 59 games in a recent game down that way the other day. Realizing that the boy had a chance to gain the state individual scoring lead, his teammates deliberately downed the ball on the one-yard line rather than go across themselves to give him a chance to add to his total . . . There has been some talk about a Mansfield-Madison post-season game, but don't figure on seeing it become a reality. Coach Russ Murphy has no desire to extend the poorest season of his career, and Al Fendrick has to jump into basketball as soon as the Rams ring down the curtain one week hence.

Tom Thumb Quarterback, 10 Behemoths Win for TCU

BACKS—Bonecrusher Clark, Connie Sparks, Davey O'Brien.

LINE—Forest Kline, I. B. Hale, Ki Aldrich.

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT

FORT WORTH, Tex.—(AP)—Wee Davey O'Brien and his unbridled Texas Christians, a strange combination of finesse and power, rumble on toward what amounts to a madman's dream down here in the Southwest—an unbeaten season.

None of the opponents left appears too steep for a versatile, 200-pound-average team the critics agree is the best in this region's history.

The reasons for this power house?

One reason is 150-pound O'Brien with his passing magic and flawless quarterbacking; another is a magnificent, 212-pound-average line with two distinct all-America candidates; another is a battering ground game that blends with the aerial antics to keep enemy defenses constantly muddled. Another reason still is a stream of capable reserves that amounts to a unit system.

But, more likely, the main answer is—they like it!

The Boys Hustle.

Hustle is the by-word at Texas Christian. No driver is Coach Leo (Dutch) Meyer. He doesn't have to crack the whip. His boys are out there because they like football.

No stormier footballer ever trod a gridiron than Center Ki Aldrich, perhaps the finest lineman in Southwest conference history. Greater, coaches agree, than his predecessor, Darrell Lester, who landed on The Associated Press' first all-America team in 1934 and 1935 as one of the few repeaters.

Aldrich symbolizes T. C. U. spirit.

His shrill voice and cat-like body bob up in every play. He's no different from his line mates. Never still, they charge up and down the line between plays, kicking pants seats, slapping backs. The Christians like football.

Just as they did when Slingin' Sam Baugh was there, they now lean heavily on passes—O'Brien's. O'Brien probably has no peer in collegiate football today. In six straight victories he threw 103 passes, and completed 54 for 1,018 yards. Add ruggedness, signal-calling ability, kicking and dangerous running to the little fellow's makeup and you've got T. C. U.'s leader.

Burly Sophomore Connie Sparks, 202-pound fullback, tucks the ball deep to his chest, ducks his head and batters through holes he knows will be there to pace the Christian power attack. Fleet Johnny Hall, 185, runs the reverses and spinners and Earl Clark, 182, is the silent hero—a great blocker.

Over the ground in triumphs over Centenary, Arkansas, Temple, Texas A. and M., Marquette and Baylor, the Christians gained almost 1,000 yards. Which, it is agreed, dispelled the rumor that Southwest football is all razzle-dazzle.

Back of that first string, which, incidentally, never suffers anything worse than a chest cold, a bruised leg or perhaps a scratch or two, is a second team some coaches would like to have as starters. The "B" team line averages past 200; the backs are fleet and have their own O'Brien in Sophomore Jack Odle, who will carry on the long line of passers at T. C. U.

'Bowl Game? Maybe'—

Coach Meyer doesn't let Rose, Sugar or Cotton Bowl gossip take up much time around the Christian camp.

"Sure we'd be interested in a bowl game—if the boys want it." He winked, "But we've found that you can't beat this old Saturday-to Saturday schedule—just taking 'em as they come. It's tough enough that way."

Twice Meyer has had teams in New Year's day games. His Christians, with Baugh pitching, beat Louisiana State, 3-2, in the 1935 Sugar Bowl game and smothered undefeated Marquette, 16-6, in the '36 Cotton Bowl classic.

Mansfield Included In Mitt Loop Setup

Elimination to Select City Team for Circuit to Be Held at Armory Friday, Nov. 25.

SOMETHING unique in boxing annals will be attempted in central Ohio this year when an amateur league for leather swingers will be conducted.

Tim Nolan, Mansfield wrestling impresario, is the originator of the plan, and, with the aid of amateur boxing leaders, is already making plans to organize teams in Mansfield, Mt. Vernon, Newark, Coshocton, Lancaster and Zanesville.

Bi-Weekly Matches.

The idea is to have home town fighters represent each city Bi-weekly home-and-home matches will be staged. A standing such as used in baseball will determine the positions of the teams in the league.

The team rosters will be selected in eliminations to be conducted a week prior to the opening of the league season, according to Nolan. The Mansfield elimination is set for Nov. 25 at the Armory, and all amateur fighters in Mansfield and vicinity are eligible.

Miniature golden gloves will be awarded the winners in the elimination as well as places on the team, with the runners-up receiving medals.

As no money can be paid the amateur boxers except for expenses, merchandise prizes will be awarded participants in the league matches, Nolan explained

Nolan said that all youngsters who qualify for the teams in the eliminations will be entered in the Cleveland Golden Gloves tournament if they desire. All expenses for the Cleveland tournament will be paid from a fund to be built up during the league season.

Boxers wishing to participate in the elimination are asked to send their entries to Nolan at the De Soto hotel.

Mat Shows Planned.

Nolan expected to stage wrestling shows in the city again this year, but he stated today that plans are indefinite. However, he indicated that the first matches will probably be staged later this month.

FRIENDLY HOUSE CAGE PILOTS MEET WEDNESDAY.

A meeting of the Friendly House Senior basketball league team managers will be held at the settlement at 7 p. m. Wednesday. Mike Wentz said today. It is requested that all team managers and sponsors be present at the meeting as Wentz will announce the team roster for the 1938-39 season.

FOREST GARDENS OPEN

CITY LEAGUE TO FILL VACANCIES WEDNESDAY

The two vacant team berths in the City Class A basketball league are expected to be filled when officials meet at the Y. M C. A. at 7 p. m. Wednesday.

President Vern Jones announced today that it is important that prospective team sponsors or representatives be present at the meeting The league is anxious to fill the positions in order to draw up the playing schedule.

GALENTO CHALLENGES LOUIE TO TITLE BOUT

ORANGE, N. J.—(U.P.)—Tony Galento, the National Boxing association's No. 1 heavyweight challenger, announced today that he would use "pressure" to force Joe Louis to give him a title fight.

Galento and his manager, Joe Jacobs, will go to Washington tomorrow, post a $5,000 appearance guarantee and an official challenge with N. B. A. Secretary Heinie Miller. Jacobs said they would leave Miller another $5,000 as a side bet that Galento could lick Louis anytime anywhere.

BOWLING SCORES

Liederkranz Club Leads Club League With 2916 Pins; Unterwagner of Elks Rolls 635.

WHACKING out games of 967, 958 and 991 for a 2916 total, the Liederkranz club set the scoring pace in the Club Handicap league at the Meder alleys last night. The Liederkranz club, led by Michaels' 606, won three games from the Tracy & Avery quintet to go into a tie for first place with the Commercial Managers and American Legion.

Led by Thull's 603 and Grohol's 600, the Legionnaires turned out a fancy 2802, but the string was good for only two games due to the big handicap held by the Mansfield Athletic club. The Commercial Managers were held to two wins by the Baku Grotto.

Gimbel Team Takes Two on Nose.

The grip held on first place in the Commercial C league by the Gimbel Confectioners was slightly reduced last night when the Art Rattan Works took the leaders for a pair of games. The winners walloped the wood for a 2560.

Campbell of Lamb's Lincos led the individuals with a 592, which he finished with a 203 and 222. Ardea of Gimbels had a 242 game.

Junior Gridmen Show Way to High Scorers

Mansfield Madison, beaten once in eight starts, held the statewide scoring lead with 288 points after mauling Loudonville 26 to 6, but even that high-scoring eleven was forced to doff its headgear when it came to garnering touchdowns.

While not rated among the high schools, Lincoln Junior high of Canton, playing against other junior highs, has racked up 320 points in winning eight straight, an average of 40 per game.

LEN JANIAK CONTINUES IN FRONT OF PARADE

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Len Janiak, hard-working Ohio U. fullback, stepped ahead of the individual Ohio scoring parade today with 63 points in seven games. He has tallied eight touchdowns and 15 conversion points.

Close on his scoring heels, Johnny Ries, Western Reserve's first-year star, topped the touchdown-makers with 10. His total was 60 points as he scored the lone Reserve touchdown that beat West Virginia Saturday.

Bucks in Poor Condition for Illinois Game

Four of 11 Who Started Against Purdue Injured.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Sorely beset by a pocketful of other troubles, the Ohio State gridiron forces probably will enter the Illinois game Saturday in their poorest physical condition of the fall.

Four of the 11 Bucks who started against Purdue last week were on the sidelines today with injuries of varying degrees of seriousness. While two regulars of former games were in doubtful shape.

Pete Gales, letterman guard, who has alternated with Vic Marino, as the varsity left guard, suffered from a severe bump on the shoulder while Alex Schoenbaum, giant left tackle, had a badly bruised hip to top the injured brigade, Trainer Tucker Smith said.

Less serious bumps were being nursed under a training lamp by Jim Strausbaugh, fleet left halfback, and Frank Zadworney, hard-blocking right halfback. Both have been regulars the last three weeks.

Marino, after a three-week sideline session with boils and a sprained ankle, probably will be available for starting duty Saturday, Smith said, although his physical condition doesn't help the troublesome guard situation none too good even when all candidates are in good health. Keith Bliss, starting right end in the early games, was also a question mark physically. He has been laid up two weeks with a sinus and respiratory infection. Dr. Walter Duffee, team physician, said it would take until Thursday to determine if Bliss will be ready for Illinois.

The absence of Schoenbaum, Gales, Strausbaugh, Zadworney and Bliss lent further gloom to an already dreary atmosphere in the Ohio State camp.

The snap and spirit of last week's drills was missing as Coach Francis Schmidt again schooled his pupils in offensive formations Monday afternoon.

Haney to Manage Lowly Brownies

ST. LOUIS—(U.P.)—The major league's managerial roster was complete today with the signing of Fred Haney as pilot of the St. Louis Browns.

Haney, former infielder with Detroit and Boston in the American and St. Louis in the National, was plucked from the managership of the Toledo Mud Hens in the American association to take the helm of the Browns.

Replacing the deposed Gabby Street, Haney is the fourth new manager to be named since the baseball season ended, and it was the sixth managerial change made since mid-season.

NEW YORK SYNDICATE PLANS EAST BOWL TILT

NEW YORK—(INS)—A syndicate today commenced negotiations for an East Bowl charity football game to be held either at the Polo Grounds or the Yankee stadium on Dec. 10. It is planned to make the game, pitting an eastern team against a standout eleven of another section, an annual affair which may in time rival the Rose Bowl.

Madison Rams Face Blue Jays

Shelby to Tackle Orangemen In Game That Will Decide N. C. O. Conference Crown.

CHAMPIONSHIPS of leagues in which neighborhood high school grid clubs are represented will probably be definitely settled this week-end.

The N. C. O. conference crown will be decided when the undefeated Shelby Whippets and Galion Orangemen collide in one of the headline games in the state at Galion Friday night.

So will the title in the Little Big Four league when Crestline and Tiffin Calvert tangle in Tiffin Friday afternoon.

Depends On Result.

There is a possibility that the Mid-State league diadem will also be settled when the powerful Madison Rams and Bellville Blue Jays hook up in the headline battle in this vicinity Friday afternoon.

If the unbeaten Bellville club takes the Rams into the camp, it will all be over. However, if Madison wins, the title will not be definitely on the Rams' trophy mantel until the Mt. Gilead tussle unless a postponed game involving Bellville is played later.

These all-important games make this week's schedule the most attractive of the fading season. Every game is a toss-up.

There are a number of other games on this week's program which will attract more than ordinary interest. For instance, Mansfield's invasion of Canton McKinlay will hold major attention Saturday afternoon.

While the Tygers may not be capable of turning back the Bulldogs, they are expected to make a battle of it if they play the same kind of ball they did last Saturday while trouncing Ashland.

Promises Action.

Although the game has no bearing on the crown, Mt. Gilead and Loudonville meet in the Red Birds' park Friday for a Mid-State league tussle that should provide plenty of entertainment.

Bucyrus meets Ashland, Norwalk St. Paul goes to New London and Danville plays at Fredericktown in what is the last big high school football program of the season. Season records:

BUY NO ANTI-FREEZE

*...until you read these facts about Du Pont "Zerone"

TESTS PROVE that "Zerone" would keep water from freezing solid even at 215° below zero. You'll never encounter temperatures like that, so you can be sure "Zerone," used in accordance with directions, will protect your car in the coldest weather you'll ever experience.

Materials from which "Zerone" is made are so effective you need comparatively little "Zerone" to achieve protection. That's economy. Properly used, replacements of "Zerone" are little indeed—and that's economy, too.

Tests prove that the mixture of "Zerone" and water passes off engine heat better than water alone: That improves engine performance.

"Zerone" in a clean cooling system prevents formation of rust and corrosion—avoids power losses, helps save fuel and oil. Those are the facts, so ask your dealer to protect your radiator with "Zerone" today. It's only $1.00 a gallon. Du Pont, "Zerone" Division, Wilmington, Delaware.

Big Ten Offered Annual Spot In Rose Bowl Tilt

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Knowledge of a plan to have winners of the Pacific Coast and Big Ten conferences meet in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Cal., each New Year's day was admitted by Ohio State university athletic officials today but they were sure the Big Ten officials had not reached a final decision in the matter.

In Memphis, Tenn., yesterday Illinois Athletic Director Wendell Wilson disclosed that the Pacific conference had already approved the plan. He said Big Ten officials would discuss the matter when they meet in December.

Ohio State athletic moguls have not expressed approval or disapproval of the matter as yet, according to James Rentick, director of public relations for the athletic department.

give Bricker and Taft their majorities," he said.

The storm which swept into the Mansfield area shortly after daybreak brought a fourth of an inch of rain by 9:30 a. m. and nearly a half inch of snow by noon.

The first snow was no mere flurry. Developing from rain and sleet about 9:30 a. m., large flakes soon filled the air.

From a high of 76 degrees yesterday afternoon, the temperature skidded to 31 in Mansfield at noon today.

The weatherman predicted a reading of well below freezing by Wednesday morning, but added that Wednesday will be fair and warmer.

GALION LEGION POSTS PLAN FOR ARMISTICE DAY

Schools to Be Dismissed For Services to Be Held on City's Public Square.

GALION—Scarbrough post, the American Legion, and school officials are combining their efforts in planning an all-day celebration of Armistice Day here.

Schools will be dismissed at 10:30 a. m. Friday in order that the children may attend the observance being conducted by the Legion post on the public square.

At 11 a. m. there will be a salute to the dead, taps, echoes, the singing of "America," and the pledge to the flag, in charge of the American Legion. A twenty-minute talk will be delivered by Attorney M. J. Mosbacher, past commander of the local post.

Plans are also underway to hold a mass pep meeting at Heise park at 2:30 p. m. in preparation for the Galion-Shelby football game to be held at the park in the evening.

There will be a parade in the evening, starting at the Big Four station and ending at Heise park gridiron. Participants in the parade will include the Shelby and Galion high school bands, football fans of both schools, the Galion Coaches association, the American Legion Drum corps, and other organizations. Prior to the game at the park there will be flag raising exercises, and music will be furnished by the three musical groups named.

HEAR PLAY REVIEWED

GALION—Reviewing the play, "Susan and God," by Rachel Crothers, Miss Hilda Schooley recommended it as a probable production to be given by the Drama Workshop Players this season, when the group met Monday night at the home of Elizabeth Bland. Inquiry will be made by the play committee regarding the rights for production of the play here.

A number of guests were present and were welcomed by the president, Mrs. C. J. Griebling, as associate members of the club.

During the business session it was decided to hold another meeting next Monday night at the home of Mary Alice Burden.

Miss Bland reported that as chairman of the play committee she has ordered at least six plays which are in the hands of Miss Schooley who is making a study of them.

WITHHOLDS FUND

Ashland Clerk Seeks to Force Payments by State.

ASHLAND—In order to force payment by the state of money owed Ashland county for court costs in criminal cases, Charles A. McBride, clerk of courts, is withholding state funds in an action similar to that brought by other counties.

According to advice of Prosecutor A. Ross Siverling, McBride is withholding about $190 of state funds, collected from certificates of title on motor vehicle registration, from the Bureau of Motor Vehicles. This amount has been put into a separate fund where it will be kept pending outcome of suits which have been brought against the state by other city clerks.

The Ohio law provides that costs for justices of peace, clerks of courts and sheriffs are to be paid by the state after final disposition of cases. For court costs in criminal cases from May, 1935, to May, 1938, the state owes Ashland county $814.89.

GALION DAUGHTERS OF AMERICA HOLD 12TH ANNIVERSARY PARTY

GALION — Organized here in Nov. 1926, Olentangy chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, celebrated its 12th birthday anniversary Monday night at the home of Mrs. Earl B. Padgett, a charter member of the organization. The chapter also observed Ellis Island gift day and members brought gifts of khaki material for trousers and jackets, shirting, pearling cotton to combine with wool for mats and rugs, and yarn, needles, thread, thimbles, scissors and Belfast cord for belts. These articles will be sent to Ellis Island, and also Angel Island, to help keep aliens contented by occupying their time in a useful manner while being detained on the islands. This is a part of the national patriotic program of the D. A. R.

In keeping with the patriotism theme of the program, Mrs. William Brown gave a book review. Two piano pupils of Miss Bessie Todd, Paul Gearhart of North Robinson and Paul Kindinger of Crestline, played groups of three numbers, each.

Mrs. Padgett's associate hostess was Mrs. H. A. Pounder.

The chapter will hold its annual Yuletide party at the home of Mrs. Harvey Sherer. The assisting hostesses will be Mrs. B. J. Heiser and Mrs. George James.

ASHLAND — Fred Ryan, 29, and Frederick Loftus, 56, of Boston, Mass., charged with grand larceny, were bound over to grand jury under bond of $2,000 each at a hearing in police court Monday morning. They will be held at the county jail awaiting action of the grand jury.

Police arrested the men at the Central hotel. They are alleged to have taken clothing and accessories from local stores valued at $116.10.

When they were arrested, police said, the two men had in their possession, two shirts from Moshers, Inc., eight pairs of men's trousers, one suit of clothes and two dark overcoats from the J. C. Penney company; one overcoat, 11 pairs of ladies' kid gloves and four pairs of ladies' silk pajamas from Montgomery Ward and company; 16 pairs of silk stockings and one black leather purse from The Home company; and an electric clock from the Western Auto associate stores.

According to the manager of the Penney company, E. R. Carlson, the men had been looking at overcoats at the store before 5 p. m. Some time later they came back to the store and the assistant manager saw one of the men put on one of the overcoats. The large crowd in the store made it impossible for him to stop the men before they left the store. He notified Carlson, giving him a description of the men. Carlson then followed the two men around town and after finding where they were making their headquarters reported his loss to police who made the arrests.

WINS AT SHOOT

BUCYRUS — For the second consecutive year William Kranich, Bucyrus, member of the Bucyrus gun club, won the club trophy shoot, with 47 out of 50 birds. Kranich tied with Mel Vogt of Tiffin and shot off the tie. Runners-up were Judge Abbot of Tiffin; William Waldock, of Sandusky; Cyrus Sears, Harpster; Ed Campbell, Galion; Dr. R. D. Miller, of Marion; William Smith and F. P. Leonard, of Bucyrus, all shooting 46 and 45.

The club will hold its annual turkey shoot Nov. 20.

GALION—A son was born Saturday evening to Mr. and Mrs. Carson Cook of Marion. The mother was the former Helen Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Stevens of Bloomingrove.

MINISTERS MEET

GALION — The County Ministerial association will hold a meeting at [illegible] Reformed church here next Monday morning at 10 o'clock, it was announced at a meeting of the Galion Ministerial association Monday morning at First Methodist church.

The devotional service was in charge of Rev. William Dunning of the Market Street Methodist church. Rev. William A. Martin, pastor of First Presbyterian church, gave an addres on "The Churches' Relation to Twentieth Century Problems."

RITES ARE SET

Funeral For Mrs. Mary Boyd To Be Held at Ashland.

ASHLAND — Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Boyd, wife of O. A. Boyd of 722 Heltman avenue, who died Monday at 6 a. m. at Samaritan hospital, will be held Wednesday at 3 p. m. at Trinity Lutheran church with Dr. A. H. Smith and Rev. H. H. Lentz, pastors of the church, in charge. Mrs. Boyd underwent an operation at the hospital seven weeks ago.

Short services will be held at the home at 1:30 p. m. The body was removed from the Shaw funeral home to the late home on Heltman avenue Monday afternoon. Burial will be made in Ashland cemetery.

She was a member of Trinity Lutheran church, the Ida Wertman Sunday school class of the church, the Sons of Union Veterans auxiliary, the Truth Seekers Bible club and the Live-U-Well club.

Survivors are one daughter, Wilma Morgan, East Liberty street; one sister, Mrs. Guy McConnell, 736 Davis street, and three brothers, William P. and Lester Yeater of Ashland R. D. and H. A. Yeater of 722 Heltman avenue. One sister, Mrs. Maud Brubaker, preceded her in death.

EXPECTS CROWD

Galion See Field Jammed For Shelby Game Friday.

GALION—Some 5,000 to 8,000 spectators are expected here Friday night to witness the Galion-Shelby football game at Heise park gridiron. The crowd was estimated at a meeting of the Downtown Coaches association held Monday night at Senior high school. Additional bleachers are being installed to take care of the large crowd.

At the meeting last night, R. W. Marsh presided in the absence of the president, H. L. Plack. There was a discussion of the game played at Marion last Friday night, and also of the coming Shelby game. Coaches John Burnison and Clarence Mackey led the discussion.

The association voted to give free tickets to Friday's game to the plumbers of Galion who have donated their services in installing plumbing equipment in the new field house at the park.

The probability of a game for the reserve team on Friday was discussed. A conference with school officials in regard to this game was slated for today.

DIES AT ADA

BUCYRUS—A stroke suffered Saturday morning at her home in Ada caused the death Sunday of Mrs. Esther Denzer Dobbins, former Crawford county school teacher and resident.

Survivors include five children J. E. Dobbins, Bucyrus high school instructor; Clinton Dobbins of Cleveland; Harry Dobbins of New York, Raymond Dobbins and Mrs. Hazel Yonkman, both of Ada; three brothers, Anson, Alexander and Lewis Denzer and one sister, Mrs. Electa Beard, all of Bucyrus township. Funeral services were held in Ada today and burial was made there.

AFRAID TO MARRY + + +

By HELEN WELSHIMER

CHAPTER 40

Tears made dark screens for her eyes as Judy ran from the studio rest room. She would not cry. Crying was weak. You had to fight on, fight up! It was the only way that you scaled any wall, low or tall.

She still clutched the newspaper that she had been reading. She had not finished the story accusing Ronald of jury bribing.

She wondered why the knowledge that Abbey and Ronald had severed their engagement did not cheer her. Was it because she wished so much for Ronald to have the girl he desired? Or was it because this change could mean nothing to her so long as Ronald cared for the other girl?

She perused the story further. Now the tears were banished and quick spots of color dotted her cheeks. Life could be so cruel, could deal so many blows at one turn of the wheel. She knew that. In just such a way she had lost Craig, her father and mother and love and security.

The story stated that Ronald Birrell probably would be suspended from the law firm of Heaton and Heaton, and probably disbarred from practice. If that happened, he would go away. Away—

Out of her life forever. Broken, hurt, lost! But he wouldn't give up. Some place he still would fight . . .

All the time she thought, she was powdering her nose, putting on her hat and coat, picking up her pocketbook and gloves. She left word at the receptionist's desk that she had been called away suddenly.

She must see Mr. Heaton, convince him that Ronald was innocent.

The senior attorney of the famous old firm greeted her with outstretched hand. "So you did come, Judy!"

Of course he thought she had come to talk about her father, to make amends and be accepted in the family again.

She sat down and shook her head. "I came, Mr. Heaton, but about another matter." She opened the newspaper that she had brought along. "Surely you of all people know how absurd this implication is. You couldn't fire Ronald!"

"You trust the lad, don't you?" the lawyer asked curiously.

"I thought you did, too." Her eyes met the man's and he looked away.

"I wouldn't have asked him to join our firm if I hadn't, Judy. We bear a proud name. We are an old association with a fine record. We want to be fair, we are going to be loyal, but the evidence." He stopped as though there were nothing more to be said.

Judy jumped up. "The evidence is false. Someone might have bribed the jurors and pretended it was Ronald. Don't you realize that?"

She was saying to him just what she had said to Ronald not long before.

"But who would do such a thing and why? He has no enemies of whom we know. He can't locate any—not any who would stoop to such dastardly tricks."

"Then you are—releasing him?" She spoke so slowly that it took a long time for the words to come.

"Let's phrase it differently. We are accepting his resignation."

"When?" That was just a whisper. She was too tired to say more.

"I shall see him in the morning."

Judy snapped out of her lethargy. She could rest later. Rest when Ronald was cleared — or gone. Now she must fight.

"Will you promise to say nothing to him about this for a couple of more days? I think perhaps I have some evidence that may clear him."

"You're being perverse, Judy. You're young and hot-headed and seeking a slim chance that the lad's not guilty. The Lord knows I hope he isn't. I'm fond of him. He's one of the most brilliant courtroom lawyers I've heard for many a day. He has a big future with us. But if he hasn't the stamina to fight his way, instead of buy it, we have no need for him."

"Do you think a boy who struggled through school and college, who rowed and played football and made an athletic name for himself, would throw away the rules of fair play? Oh, Mr. Heaton, stop being a stuffed shirt, and grow up!"

Judy had no intention of hurling such an admonition at the dignified lawyer. Now she heard the words and didn't regret them. That's what he was. Let him take it!

He laughed and she joined the sound, mournfully.

Then the lawyer said: "Your father is coming in in a few moments. He may be in the outer office now. Wouldn't you like to see him?"

"I could speak to him. I suppose it wouldn't injure my cause," she said, and tried to smile. "I was an encumbrance for a while. It's a little difficult to be a daughter again."

She wondered if Ronald was around. She wanted to see him. She must tell him about those numbers in her pocketbook and their connection with the man in the green fedora and plaid coat.

"Has Mr. Birrell been in lately?" she asked as Mr. Heaton rang for his secretary.

"Not since this morning. He has a case at court—"

"He still tries cases?"

"He's a good lawyer, my dear, and he has not been disbarred. There is a long way to go until he is. Besides this case was before a judge.

"How soon will he be back?"

"It depends on the time his case is tried. Late, perhaps."

The courthouse was nearby. If she took a cab, she might waylay Ronald. That would be better than meeting him here. She stood up.

"Your father," the attorney reminded her.

"Oh, yes!" So quickly she had forgotten him.

He had been waiting and now he came into the room smiling at her. He held out a hand and kissed her lightly on the cheek. He made a humorous remark about her independence. She saw that he took it as a whim. He did not understand that she wanted to build solidly, that she wanted roots too deep for any economic upheaval, that money was not important so long as one had food and clothes, firelight and books.

The conversation was casual. Mr. Heaton left them. Judy explained that she would like to keep her apartment. In an impulsive moment she invited her father and Sarita down for dinner.

"You have a cook?" her father asked.

"No, a woman who comes in to clean three times a week, and gets dinner whe I ask her to. But I can cook."

"Where did you learn, my dear?"

"At one of those expensive schools to which you sent me—the one in Switzerland. I remember that I liked it because we had such rich cream and chocolate for pastries and puddings."

And during those same years Ronald had been rising early to make white gravy in the kitchen of a southern school, so the other students could have it on their biscuits; he had been seeding lawns; mowing, working an honorable way to the place he held today.

She knew that her father would not understand any more than Mr. Heaton had. The lawyer came back. The conversation turned to Ronald.

"Too bad about that young protege of yours getting involved," Mr. Rogers said as though Ronald were any young man with his name in the paper. "I liked him the few times I saw him."

To Judy an idea had come. She drew a deep breath, leaned forward. Maybe she really could help Ronald!

GOT A NUMBER?

Board Urges Workers to Have One Before Payments Start.

The importance of all workers in obtaining social security account numbers before Ohio's unemployment compensation plan becomes operative Jan. 1, was emphasized today by R. G. Mish, manager of the Mansfield field office of the Social Security board.

"It is important that all workers applying for unemployment insurance benefits which will be payable after Jan. 1 have an account number," Mish said.

"According to the Unemployment commission, no applications for benefits will be accepted until the worker shows his social security card."

Mish said that any worker who has lost his account number should obtain a duplicate now rather than wait until the first of the year.

The Mansfield office of the board serves the seven-county district of Richland, Ashland, Knox, Marion, Morrow, Crawford and Wyandot counties.

'METER' STAMPS EGGS

SYDNEY, Australia—(U.P.)—Hens in Australia will soon be punching time clocks just like office and factory workers. A "Henometer" has been invented, which will automatically stamp each egg with the breed of the hen and the date of the egg. TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1938.

Higher values and lower prices make a wonderful team for business recovery.

Let's be thankful that we live in a country in which decisions are made by ballots instead of bullets, and where voters are urged, but not purged.

These Sunday night radio programs are becoming entirely too realistic—imagine becoming all wrought up over a prize fight and then discovering that the principals are Jack Benny and Kenny Baker!

Looking Ahead From Election.

ELECTIONS are necessary, and important, in carrying on the kind of government we have in the United States.

By holding elections at regular intervals, under a two-party system, it is possible to get a fairly accurate idea of the trend of public thinking at that particular time.

But elections, important as they are, should be recognized as mere incidents in the life of this great country.

Politics and government also play essential parts in the national program of progress, but these, too, are legitimately entitled to no more than minor roles—except as they may sometimes attempt to dominate beyond the intent of their proper functions.

Today's election will be marked by decisions which will be accepted as majority thought of 1938 in regard to state and national policies of government.

Whatever the outcome may be, it can be assumed that each voter has given conscientious expression of his or her judgment in the matter of candidates and issues voted on.

It should also be safely assumed that every American citizen, regardless of political party affiliation, is sincerely interested in the continuance, and further advancement, of this country as a representative democracy, with thought and action toward constant betterment of the welfare of all who are able and willing to do some kind of necessary work, as well as to provide for those who, through age, misfortune or physical or mental handicap, are unable to care for themselves.

Recent weeks have brought a concentration of interest in today's election. By tomorrow the results will be known. There should be calm acceptance of the outcome, coupled with determination on the part of all forces involved—government, industry, business, agriculture and individuals—to unite in doing everything possible for the advancement of this nation and the welfare of its people.

Faster Freight Movement.

TRANSPORTATION goes in more and more for speed, on the highways, the railroads and the airways. The rails have been a little slower than the others in going faster, but they are making up for lost time. Mile-a-minute trains have become familiar in almost every section of the country since the appearance of the streamlined, stainless-steel Zephyrs. Both Diesels and steam are involved. The new 6,000-horsepower Diesel-electric train just put on the Washington-Miami run is the most modern example.

It isn't only passenger trains. Freights, too, have been speeding up, and rail men are talking of mile-a-minute freight trains.

These will cost far more per unit, of course, but they will carry much more freight in a given time, and will be better for perishable goods.

The government is expected to back such a development, as it undertakes a railroad rehabilitation program. Apparently the rails, recently despaired of, are entering a new era of progress.

Kentucky's 10-Year-Old Bride.

THERE has been much fussing, during the past week, about the case of the 10-year-old Kentucky girl marrying a 34-year-old man.

Except as an example of what can happen in benighted sections of a so-called civilized country, there is little reason to become stirred up over such an occurrence.

Here was a case of two weak-minded persons mating under circumstances obnoxious to the sensibilities of normal people. But it was the youthfulness of the bride, rather than her subnormality, that elicited the criticism.

Not only in Kentucky, but in Ohio and many other states, little thought appears to be given to marriages that involve weak-minded persons who produce mentally and physically deficient children of varying degrees of imbecility or idiocy.

Until Ohio has taken corrective steps to a least reduce the propagation of imbeciles and idiots there is little justification for the people of this state to be over-critical of occasional manifestation of similiar conditions in other states.

Compulsory Flag Ritual.

THE school flag problem is a hardy perennial. It is disposed of in one community only to spring up in another.

A farmer near South Deerfield, Mass., is now at outs with the local school authorities because his three children were expelled from school for refusing to salute the American flag. They had been taught by their parents not to do so. The family belongs to a religious cult which regards such deference as idolatrous.

Assuming that the parents are mistaken and the school authorities are right, how do the latter expect to improve the situation by their action? Do not those children need more and better education rather than less? Could they not be asked to substitute for salute of the flag, a daily paragraph on what it is to be an American, the blessings of democracy, the value of education, the expression of loyalty? If they are law-abiding citizens of the school and the community in all other respects, can they not be excused from the patriotic gesture until they are better able to judge this flag ritual for themselves, with intelligence and understanding?

There are enough things to worry about on this planet without becoming disturbed over what invaders from Mars might do to us.

Observers mention that the way in which Queen Elizabeth smiles and bows, you'd think her husband was coming out for re-election.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — One thing demonstrated by the radio fantasy of the attack by Mars on the New Jersey coast is that in times of great excitement our communication system can go haywire.

This aspect of the situation is no reflection on the telephone company, or the radio people; it is a perennial problem.

By the time Orson Welles' broadcast of the radio play was half finished, newspapers, radio stations, police stations, army posts and other sources of information were swamped by telephone calls. The net result was that even official calls could not get through.

Police in New York City tried vainly for some time to telephone to Columbia Broadcasting company, which staged the fantasy. The officers could not get a line that was not busy with panic calls. Finally a patrol car was sent over to the company studio to learn what the business was all about.

They Call Up Quick.

THOUSANDS of radio listeners were bedevilled by the fear that war, either from Mars or from some other fearsome enemy, was being visited upon the country. They rushed to the telephone to get advice. Others, pursued by the hysterical belief that the end of the world was at hand or that enemy planes already were roaring over the Atlantic seaboard, telephoned warnings of the disaster to their friends, or passed on hysterical imaginings to the newspapers.

That a similar situation would occur in event of a real attack on the country by real enemies from the air is more than likely. Newspapers have a domonstration of that trouble every election night and on many nights of important football games. Additional switchboards are installed in anticipation of the rush, but even then they are overwhelmed at certain periods during the time the news is hot.

Taste of War's Confusion.

REAL bombs showering by surprise upon seaboard cities would multiply the confusion 10 times over.

The confusion over the Mars attack was confined largely to local calls, since few chose to go to the expense or take the time to tell distant relatives of the doom impending.

But even the long distance can be tied up, along with the telegraph systems, as witness our experience in the time of the latest Mississippi flood disaster or occasionally at Christmas time.

In war time it is likely something would be done about it. Priority calls would be routed through special channels. But if any solution has been found to meet the emergency of a telephone-conscious American public rushing to grab up the receiver in moments of curiosity or peril, we have heard nothing of it.

They block up all the regular channels, flood public switchboards, and tie up most of the channels through which they could receive necessary information.

Real Pan-American Union Needed

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Next December's Pan-American gathering at Lima, Peru, comes at a very significant juncture.

With Germany in particular and various other overseas countries in general waging vigorous campaigns of penetration in the New World's southern republics, it obviously stands Uncle Sam in hand to do some intensive cultivating of his own in the same quarter.

In the past the United States has neglected Latin America scandalously. The Pan-American Union, originally of Yankee inspiration, has done its best for years, but until quite recently its voice has cried pretty much in the wilderness.

John Barrett, the Union's first director general, personally was highly thought of from the Rio Grande to Cape Horn. Up north however, his ideas didn't get the attention they deserved, and the Latins knew it, which considerably discounted his influence. Dr. Leo S. Rowe, who succeeded Barrett and still is in office, counts substantially with the present Washington government. Yet even he wasn't seriously regarded earlier in his administration.

And, anyway, the Pan-American Union never has had an official status — no authority. It simply has done missionary work. This missionary work is beginning to take effect at last. Nevertheless we have a long lead in our rivals' favor, to make up.

Our Businessmen's Fault.

In great part our businessmen were largely to blame.

They reckoned that they had markets enough elsewhere and didn't need to bother with Latin America's. Even if they did happen to have an occasional surplus and wanted Latin Americans to take what they had on hand, it was unadapted to Latin American requirements.

Illustratively:

Latin American rural roads mainly are the trails of two-wheeled carts, with wheels about six feet in diamater. These wheels dig deep gutters, with a high ridge between them. Our average automobile hasn't a sufficient clearance to navigate such deep hollows. The axles simply straddle the hump, with the wheels spinning helplessly.

Did our manufacturers pay any attention to this difficulty? They did not — with the exception of Fords, which accidentally do happen to have a pretty high clearance.

European makers came, took a look, saw the point and built their Latin American autos accordingly. Naturally they got the bulk of the business.

There are Yankee exceptions. The International Harvester Company, the Singer Sewing Machine Company, some of the typewriter companies and a few others have the intelligence to meet local demands—but not many of us.

The World war's end offered us our grand good chance. Europe, from which the Latins had been in the habit of getting nearly all of their manufactured stuff, was flat on its back. We were all keyed up to maximum production. They bought from us or went without. We could have grabbed all that trade and kept it. But we still balked at giving them what they wanted. Of course, then, our rivals have wormed back all their old business.

Hoover Saw It.

President Hoover was our first statesman to sense this situation. Unfortunately he hasn't what the Latins call a "sympathetic personality." He meant well but wasn't the kind the Latins respond to. Guided by Dr. Rowe, President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull do seem to have the requisite quality. They did remarkably well at the last Pan-American conference in Buenos Aires. Maybe they'll do yet better at Lima.

It's an uphill fight, but we're progressing upward.

We have one advantage.

Traditionally the Latin republics are democratic.

They have their dictatorial streaks.

Basically they are pro-liberal.

Nazi-ism and Fascism have been promptly squelched in Brazil, Chile and Argentina.

What we need, of course, is a REAL Pan-American Union.

Grab Bag

One-Minute Test.

1. Who coined the phrase "the almighty dollar"?
2. What is a dewlap?
3. What scientist has given his name to a process for purifying milk?

Words of Wisdom.

Be not ashamed to confess that you have been in the wrong. It is but owning what you need not be ashamed of—that you now have more sense than you had before, to see your error; more humility to acknowledge it, more grace to correct it.—Seed.

Hints on Etiquette.

"Let me make you acquainted with So-and-So" is an incorrect way to introduce two persons; nor is it correct to say, "I want you to shake hands with" such a one. Say, "Let me present," or simply say the names, "Mr. Roberts, Mr. Smith."

One-Minute Test Answers.

1. Washington Irving. He used it twice in "The Creole Village."
2. A fold of loose skin hanging from the throat, particularly of cattle.
3. Louis Pasteur, French bacteriologist.

Functions of Excretory System.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

EVERY machine accumulates some waste products in the course of its operation. The body is no exception. Every time glucose and oxygen unite in a muscle to produce muscular energy, some water, some lactic acid and some carbon dioxide are formed. Every time a molecule of one of the 78 grams of protein, which are estimated to be the daily minimum requirement, is broken down, some nitrogenous products are formed. They are useless and even dangerous and must be removed from the blood stream.

To accomplish the excretory functions of the body there are four sets of organs—the kidneys, the lungs, the skin and the large bowel. The large bowel gets rid of the end products of digestion, excess bile and a great mass of bacteria.

Skin's Function.

The skin gets rid of water and salt. The Egyptians practiced the art of prolonging life by the routine use of emetics and sudorfics (drugs to induce sweating) at definite intervals.

This tradition has come down to our own day. The hearty golfer rejoices when the sweat breaks out, and he says with satisfaction that he is getting rid of the poisons. The man about town and the strenuous business executive, both male and female, resort regularly to the establishments where they sit in cabinets with their heads sticking out of the holes on top, like the 40 thieves in the Arabian Nights, and are cheered inwardly to think that the toxins generated in the cause of super-ardent industrialism are seeping out of their very pores.

Doesn't Rid Poisons.

It is almost inhuman to disillusion these trustful souls, but the stern fact is that perspiration does not get rid of any real poisons from the body at all, except water and salt. And usually with induced sweating, too much is eliminated and has to be replaced.

Austin and Miller some years ago studied the effects of sweating in patients with partial uremia. The nitrogenous poisons were high in their blood. These substances can be accurately measured by modern methods of biochemistry. Active and prolonged sweating did not reduce them at all. Sometimes, it is true, certain drugs are eliminated in the sweat. Undoubtedly garlic is, which is the reason for that mellifluous aroma which pervades the neighborhood of the garlic consumer.

The lungs excrete water, getting rid of even more than the skin, and also carbon dioxide. This latter is most important, especially in preserving the buffer action of the blood and in maintaining the body's neutrality.

For most of the useless by-products of nutrition, the kidneys are the main route of excretion.

Words of the Wise

If the soul be happily disposed, everything becomes capable of affording entertainment, and distress will almost want a name.—Goldsmith.

A Farmer's Diary

Fall Peas.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I PLANTED telephone peas the middle of July. It rained, and the seed took root immediately. The soil was dark and mellow, and in four days, I saw green leaves appear and looked along the rows in real delight. Sixteen rows there were, stretching straight and green across the garden.

I had never planted peas for fall harvesting before. One farmer smiled and told me I was wasting seed. Another said I knew too many things that weren't true. I thanked him for his frankness but still I believed the growing crop would bring returns.

When the vines had grown taller and had fine, fringed tendrils on the top I staked the rows and strung two strands of good new twine to hold the vines up. I used an entire ball.

Another splendid shower came and that night I believe they grew an inch. Next morning the warm sunbeams showed them, damply, deliciously green. I called my wife to help me admire the sight.

Then dry weather came. By the first of September the ground was parched, and a withered yellow showed about the roots. The tops, though, were still a hardy green with knots of white blossoms. I whistled to keep my courage up, although I mentally divided my prospects by two—by three—by six.

Things went from bad to worse. The leaves and upper stems developed a white, hairy mildew, while the parts that mildew did not touch were covered with black spots. Today, while digging carrots, I stood and looked wryly at those 16 rows of curled dead, rustling stalks.

I had gone so far as to promise some friends in town a mess of October peas. I promised too much. My fellow farmers will say "I told you so. Fall peas don't bring a crop." Experience tells me that they are right. Still, with more rain, things might have been different. I may put out a few rows again next year.

Listen, World!

Seeing God In Your Fellow Men.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

STRANGE, how one can repeat a phrase countless times yet never discover its real meaning. I'm thinking, just now, of the Beatitudes—that portion of Christ's Sermon on the Mount which the youngsters of my generation knew as well as we knew our mother's homing call.

"Blessed are the poor . . . blessed are they that mourn . . . blessed are the meek" . . . sitting in sing-song, Sunday morning rows, toes dangling, curls bobbing, freshly scrubbed ears ablaze, we piped that lovely litany, until it seemed a part of our young flesh. Yet only yesterday—forty long years since—did I come to realize what one of those Beautitudes really meant!

"Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God" . . . how often I'd said those words, yet never once had I connected them with our common human need. Noble words, surely. But somehow they left one unmoved. For how could being "pure in heart" help a desperate man in a world shot through with foulness and dishonesty, suspicion and spite?

A beautiful theory, and suited to poets, idealists and mystics, like the young Christ, Himself. But common folk dare not think sweetly of everyone . . . dare not take everyone on trust. One had to take people as they really were and be prepared against them, even in one's thoughts.

And as for "seeing God" sometime as a reward, that, too, was glorious in theory . . . but how could it heal or help a weary, worried human being, here and now? It couldn't!

So down the years I went, twisting those blessed words to suit my own warped vision. Until the other day — in one of those "stranger than fiction" incidents —I learned their true meaning. My friend, that best loved of all journalistic executives, Joseph V. Connolly, general manager of Hearst Newspapers, was to speak at the National Eucharistic Congress in New Orleans. Broadcasts, to case-hardened newspaper people, are no particular treat. But if "Joe"—Joe of the wide Irish grin and the warm Irish heart—was speaking, that was different! All over America, grimy hands dropped proof sheets . . . tousled heads lifted above typewriters . . . listened.

Silence . . . with only the throb of the great presses pounding along the waiting air. Then suddenly, with the swift leap and lunge of a fighter, "J. V." was on the air . . . calling upon an indifferent nation to awake . . . warning an endangered people to prepare . . . demanding, exhorting, passionately pleading for tolerance and Christian kindness in a world distraught by fear and greed and racial hate.

Word by word, the blows shot home. Then suddenly, above the dark picture, the long years, the old words came. The same, yet oh-so-different!

"BLESSED ARE THE PURE IN HEART —" Blessed, indeed! But where, I asked myself, is there place or reward for purity in this soiled and shameful world? But, even as I asked, the answer came—

"BLESSED ARE THE PURE IN HEART: FOR THEY SHALL SEE GOD" . . . IN THEIR FELLOW MEN.

So that was what it meant! And all these years I had missed it!

"For they shall see God"—Not in some far-off Heaven, some vague eternity . . . but here and now, wherever they looked, in the faces of their fellow men, even in their distorted acts. One found what one sought, I had long known that; but never before had I applied it to this promise. But now I understood. If a man's heart was filled with expectation of hate, he found the hate he expected . . . the vileness he expected . . . the unfairness and cruelty. But if his heart was pure with love and charity . . . he found that which he, himself, felt . . . he found God.

"Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God!" Oh, wise and loving young Christ, how deeply You understood Your weak brothers when You gave us that promise! How well You knew the horror of encircling hate . . . how deeply You felt our human need of finding friendliness behind our masks of spite! And so, in eleven words, you gave us the secret to it all—

THINK LOVE AND YOU WILL FIND IT. CHOOSE BEAUTY FOR YOURSELF AND YOU WILL SEE IT IN OTHERS. For there is God in everyone—however debased the clay in which He abides. But only those who have chosen Him for themselves, can recognize Him in the scarred, shamed faces of their fellow men!

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Neil MacMillan, who became lost in the British Guiana jungles and nearly starved after a six month diet of cassava root, has returned to New York with some highly enlightening opinions of the natives down there.

"Those Indians among whom we lived," recalled the still somewhat wan but now well-fed members of the Holden expedition, "were a fascinating lot. Most of them look old, due to the privations and that poisonous cassava root. They can't count above three. With them 'four' is a word compounded of two 'twos.' I asked one old man how old he was and his reply was: 'I am two men and four on the other hand.'

"This meant nothing until I learned their way of reckoning. They use their digits, beginning with one hand. One hand means 5. One hand and one on the other means 6. Both hands equal 10. One on one foot means 11. One foot means 15. One on the other foot means 16. One man, that is to say, two hands and two feet, means 20. With this as a table I was able to figure out the old man's age as 49, which wasn't old at all. That was the total of the 'two men and four on the other hand.' Am I clear?"

We mumbled politely that it was all very clear, but it wasn't, and so we reached for our bonnet and ducked out. We were afraid he would really get tough and take up long division.

ONE night I was strolling along a boulevard in Paris and I ran into Bob Christenberry. You must not think I have been abroad when I mention Paris, for on Broadway there is now a vast enclosure that is known as the sidewalks of Paris. This is an adjunct of those two Parisian revues fashioned so expertly by Clifford C. Fischer at the International Casino, and it affords the clientele an opportunity to sip their aperitifs in an authentic atmosphere of the French capital.

But I was talking about Bob Christenberry. He recently won a golf tournament — although he has only one hand. When you talk with him you come away with the impresion of having been with a man thoroughly versed in anything you choose to talk about.

This is true, and a peek into his personal records reveals why. He was in the war and a U. S. marine. He was vice consul in Vladivostok and also in Santo Domingo. He has been a newspaperman and a deep water fisherman. He is the manager of the Astor hotel at Broadway and 45th street.

He is also the managing director of the International Casino, which explains, perhaps, how I happened to bump into him across from a very intriguing postcard stand on the Rue de la Paix. As for those postcards — well, I wouldn't know. I was afraid they wouldn't muster up to snuff and so I passed them by. After all, we gadabouts must preserve some illusions.

I DON'T want to disillusion you, but you aren't very well dressed unless your wardrobe includes at least twelve hats. At least that's what the man said. I hope it isn't going to ruin your day.

Incidentally, some time ago we noted that Al Jolson preferred suspenders to a belt, and in the next mail came a gift pair of suspenders from a manufacturer. Well, Pal, if it's that easy here goes: Warner Baxter wears shoes, John Barrymore wears hats, Clark Gable wears overcoats, Robert Montgomery wears neckties, Franchot Tone wears pants with coats and vests to match, Robert Taylor rides in an automobile, Basil Rathbone sometimes wears evening clothes.

Timely Editorial

No Fast Night Driving.

Proposals before the traffic experts in conference in Washington that motorists be permitted to drive faster in daytime than at night and faster in the open, sparsely settled areas than on main roads in more populous districts are not without merit. Speedy but careful driving, under proper conditions, is less conducive to accidents than is a pace so slow as to hold up the procession and invite "weaving."

Fast driving at night, however, is in a different category. In itself it suggests a degree of recklessness that is the prime element in the horrible highway slaughter that has become the shame of America. Careful and thoughtful drivers don't try to break all known records when plowing through the darkness.

SEASON'S FIRST SNOW REDUCES RICHLAND VOTE

25,000 Expected to Go to Polls In City and County, 6,000 Less Than 2 Years Ago.

of Newark, was opposed by Thomas P. Jones, Canton attorney.

Congress Race in Spotlight.

Perhaps next in interest, however, to the gubernatorial and senatorial contests for Richland county voters was the race between William A. Ashbrook, veteran Democratic representative of the 17th district in congress, and Walter B. Woodward, Bellville. Woodward, an avowed Townsend supporter, was expected to give Ashbrook more opposition than he has had in his long career as a campaigner.

For the Ohio senate, Richland county, as part of the 27th-29th district, was choosing between Maurice C. Brown, Democratic newcomer in state politics from Lorain, and P. H. Rogers, a Grafton Republican. Rogers is a veteran member of the Ohio legislature, having represented Lorain county for several terms.

There were several special issues to be decided in Richland county.

Cass and Springfield township voters were deciding on local option issues. Butler township was voting on a $14,000 bond issue for construction of a township hall. Troy township was voting on an operating levy of .6 of a mill.

Weller and Franklin township voters — comprising the Union rural school district—were voting for the second time on a school bond issue of $75,000.

Decide Fate of T. B. Levy.

Of county-wide significance was the proposed half-mill levy for care of tubercular indigents, while in the city a park board proposal, which involves no added taxation, was being decided.

Richland county voters, along with all Ohio, were designating also whether they wished to continue electing their judges or preferred having them appointed. The question was in the form of a proposed amendment to the state constitution.

The campaign of the top four candidates sent those of candidates for lesser offices into the background.

For lieutenant governor were James Metzenbaum, Democratic Cleveland attorney who conducted last year's state senate investigation of state affairs, and Republican Paul M. Herbert of Columbus.

Herbert S. Duffy, Democratic incumbent, and Thomas J. Herbert, Republican, opposed each other for attorney general.

State Treasurer Clarence Knisley, Democrat, sought to retain his position against Don Ebright, Republican, who is finance director of Akron.

William J. Kennedy, Democrat, was opposed for re-election as secretary of state by Earl Griffith, Mt. Gilead publisher.

Ferguson Has No Worries.

There was no contest for auditor, Joseph T. Ferguson being elected to a four-year term two years ago.

Carl V. Weygandt, Robert N. Gorman, and Edward S. Matthias, sought re-election as judges of the supreme court. Opposing them were Walter B. Wanamaker, common pleas judge of Akron; William L. Hart, who held a short term on the court in 1934, and R. M. Winegardner, deputy state tax commissioner.

William C. Dixon, state relief director, opposed Gus K. Allen, Cleveland, for a six weeks term on the supreme bench.

46 Other States Vote.

While more than 2,000,000 Ohioans were casting their ballots today, elections were also being held in 46 other states—all but Maine, which voted in September.

Nearly 40,000,000 were expected to cast ballots, an all-time record for an "off-year" election.

Candidates were many and issues varied, but in the bulk of the congressional contests the question of support or opposition to Roosevelt policies predominated.

The president himself appealed only last Friday for election of men who would favor "liberal" proposals. Republicans, with an eye on 1940, criticized the national administration and many of its works and called for election of candidates advocating a "return to the American way."

President Seals Forecast.

President Roosevelt was in Hyde Park, N. Y., where he sealed in an envelope his own forecast of the outcome. Vice President Garner, the silent man of this year's campaign, was at home in Uvalde, Texas, where he has been since congress adjourned.

In several states where contests have been especially gruelling, tension was at a high point. In Pennsylvania hundreds of special guards were on duty at the polls. Excitement ran high in Michigan and New York because of the hot gubernatorial races. The old age pension issue was a focal point of interest in California.

In contrast to these were the southern states, where election of Democratic tickets was in most instances a mere formality.

G. O. P. Predicts Gains.

Republicans, who now control 15 senate seats and seven governorships, predicted gains of from eight to a dozen senatorships and as many governorships and upwards of 80 more house seats.

They have worked especially hard to elect governors in order to build state organizations for the 1940 presidential campaign. With this consideration in mind the races in such states as New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and California have taken on importance far beyond the local issues involved.

Control of those great key states may be one of the determining factors in the election of a president two years hence. Whichever side wins most of them is certain to claim a political victory of the first magnitude.

ers, in fact, it served to redouble their efforts to get out a record off-year vote. Democratic headquarters workers said that their "flying squadron" included two cars in each of the 90 precincts in the county, with several working out of the main headquarters. Republicans had 50 cars busy in the city and a fair sized "mobile unit" at work throughout the county.

At Shiloh where a local option election is being held today, a "dummy" was confiscated for violating electioneering restrictions. The dummy was the figure of a little man, about 30 inches high, in a store window, which mechanically leafed through a book which told the evils of drink and the effects on the human body of alcohol. It had been placed there by a temperance group. Election officials were told by the secretary of state's office to confiscate it for "electioneering."

Although WPA workers were given a holiday today, red, white and blue signs were erected on most of the WPA projects throughout the county which said: "Save WPA—vote for Bulkley and Sawyer and the entire Democratic ticket." Similar posters have been placed on WPA projects throughout the state during the past week.

Republican leaders said that a large bulletin board would be set up tonight at party headquarters in the Warner building on North Main street, and that returns obtained from the election board and radio would be posted on it. Both Republican and Democratic headquarters will be open tonight.

RICHLAND WAS IN DAVEY RANKS TWO YEARS AGO

County Gave Governor 2,787 More Votes Than Bricker In 1936 Election.

Gov. Martin L. Davey, Democratic candidate for re-election two years ago, polled 2,787 more votes in Richland county than John W. Bricker, the Republican candidate who is running again this year against Charles Sawyer.

Gov. Davey received 17,624 votes in 1936 to Bricker's 14,837. Most of Davey's majority, however, was in the rural districts outside Mansfield where he rolled up a 2,174 margin. His majority in Mansfield was only 614 votes.

The county rural vote gave Davey 8,917 and Bricker, 6,743. In the city, Davey polled 8,708 votes to 8,094 for Bricker.

Here's how the city and county voted at the general election in 1936:

Last-Minute Tune-Up for Horse Show

A couple of hours before the national horse show opened in Madison Square Garden, N. Y., Lieut. Dauglas Cleland, of the Canadian military jumping team, took his mount over the obstacles as a tune-up for the real thing. He's shown going over the top of the cannon jump, newest hurdle for military jumps. The opening of the show was one of the season's most brilliant social events.

PLAN FOR DRIVE

11 Sub-Chairmen Named For Shelby Roll Call.

SHELBY—Eleven sub-chairmen today were named for the annual Red Cross drive which opens in the city Nov. 15, by Roll Call Charman Leo McGaw. More than 50 workers will take part in the drive.

Plans are being completed for the annual workers' conference held every year to open the drive. Supplies and materials will be given out to the workers during the meeting Nov. 15. Special speakers will be selected for the program. Other arrangements for the meeting are incomplete.

Precinct chairmen for the four Shelby wards include the following: Ward 1, Precinct A, Mrs. Kenneth Rothlisberger; Precinct B, Mrs. Clayton Mayer, and Precinct C, Mrs. H. C. Munchausen. Ward 2, Precinct A, Mrs. H. A. Mullett, and Precinct B, Mrs. Stacy Haun.

Ward 3, Precinct A, Mrs. James Wentz, and Precinct B, Mrs. Joseph Yohn. Ward 4, Precinct A, Mrs. Walter Benedict, and Precinct B, Mrs. E. L. Roberts. Business district, Gerald Dennis, and factory district, Mac Crawford. Last year $2,000 was raised. No quota is set for this year.

OK'S TRANSFER OF CITY FUNDS

SHELBY—During a 30-minute session Monday night, city council approved the transfer of $500 from the general fund to the Seltzer park fund upon the recommendation of Finance Director Bert Fix.

Also approved at the meeting was an ordinance for the issuance of $3,500 in bonds for street improvements for Madison avenue, East Gaylord avenue and Mohican street. Although the city's relief coffers have been empty since August, no transfer of funds was made by the council to provide additional relief revenue.

SHELBY HOSPITAL NOTES

SHELBY—Admitted, Mrs. R. I. Lewis, 16 Wentz avenue; Mrs. William Moody, East Gaylord avenue, and George Crall, South Gamble street. Dismissed, Mrs. Albert Clark, 17 Wilson avenue, and Herbert Waldruff, near Shelby.

GIVEN BALLOTS

C. of C. Members Asked to Nominate 9 For Directors.

More than 600 ballots were in the hands of Chamber of Commerce members today asking them to place in nomination the names of nine members to fill vacancies in the board of directors.

The 18 members receiving the most votes will be nominated and will be balloted on next week.

Paul W. Williams, secretary-manager of the chamber said the ballots must be returned to the office of the chamber in the Farmer's bank building before 4 p. m. Friday.

The terms of nine board members who are chosen for a two-year period expire this year.

LEARN DETAILS OF DROWNINGS

Friends of Lexington Couple Hear Auto Plunged Into Bay.

Details of an accident in Bradenton, Fla., the latter part of October in which a former Lexington man and woman were drowned were learned by Mansfield friends today.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Coleman, who lived in Lexington for a number of years and were engaged in raising flowers, were drowned Oct. 24 when the coupe in which they were riding, skidded on a wooden bridge tore away a guard rail and plunged into the bay.

The car sank and it was an hour before the bodies could be liberated and brought to the surface. Mr. Coleman was 61. Mrs. Coleman, 57, is survived by a sister, Mrs. Otis Miller of Mansfield, and a brother, Ellsworth McBride, of Pittsburgh.

SEES BUSINESS UPTURN

With the completion of the White Electric Sales company's first year of business in Mansfield, L. R. CLASSICAL NUMBERS PRESENTED AT CLUB

Mrs. Paul W. Williams Chairman for Program Given Before Music Study Group; Members Give Selections.

CLASSICAL selections were presented during the program last night when members of the Music Study club gathered at the Women's Club for the November meeting Mrs. R. F. Cox was hostess and Mrs. Paul W. Williams was chairman of the evening's program and presented the paper.

Mrs. Williams presented her paper on the classical period preceding the artists' selections. She told that it was during the Middle Ages that music, along with art, developed. Speaking of the reasons for the development of music both within and outside the church the speaker said, "Music was a much more democratic art than painting."

She then gave a biographical background of the lives of Johann Sebastian Bach, Handel, Gluck and Haydn. Mrs. Williams pointed out the contributions of each of these composers to the classical period of music.

The musical portion of the program was introduced by Mrs. Joy Herbert, harpist, who played "Variations" from Haydn and a gavotte from "Iphegenia In Aulis" by Gluck.

Mrs. Carl Walker presented "The Spirit of Song" by Haydn and "Careselve" by Handel as vocal selections. Violin music was given by S. K. Jorgensen who played the four movements of the Sonata in D Major by Handel.

"Lullaby" by Mozart and "If Thou Be Near" by Miss Jane Weuthrick were next presented, and Mrs. Marie Marks Porterfield played two Bach preludes. Accompanist were Mrs. Minnie Marks Cahall, Mrs. H. L. Gilbert, and Miss Louise Krause.

During the short business meeting conducted by Mrs. K. E. Buhr, Mrs. Ray Curry gave a report of the recent Middle North district meeting, and announced that the Mansfield club had been given the highest rating among the 235 clubs in the state.

Miss Katherine Hartman gave the music current events. The names of the following new active and patron members were announced: Mrs. G. D. Schneider, Miss Catherine Black, Mrs. Lawrence Frank, Mr. Jorgensen, Mrs. Arthur Knight, Miss Ruth Bukes, Miss Marguerite Speas, Miss Evelyn Sonner and Mrs. Claude Marks.

On Nov. 20 the group will present the first twilight musicale at the First Presbyterian church at 4 p. m. Mrs. A. L. Twitchell, Mrs. George W. Hall and Mrs. Charles Anglin are the artists. The next regular meeting will be Dec. 12 at the Women's club at 7:45 p. m. Miss Myrtle Booth will present a group of members in choral music. Mrs. Eugene Renwick is the chairman and Mrs. J. E. Gibson, the hostess.

State Regent Here For Luncheon at Church Yesterday

Members of Mansfield's two D. A. R. chapters, the Mary Washington chapter, and the Jared Mansfield chapter, met yesterday for a 1 o'clock luncheon at the First Congregational church. There were three long tables decorated with fruit at which the 55 members of the two groups were seated. Mrs. James Donahue, state regent, was the guest of honor.

She reported on the National Board meeting which was held recently in Washington and on the National and State projects of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Edward Dann and Mrs. Clifford Hillier. The next meeting date will be announced later, officers stated this morning. Mrs. Edward Loughridge will be the hostess for the session.

Guild Conducts Regular Meeting

Miss Estella Arras, 635 Springmill street, was hostess last night to members of the St. Paul guild when they met for a business and social meeting. Mrs. Paul Lee, president, read the devotions. Plans were made to bring white gifts to the December meeting.

A social hour followed with prizes being won by Mrs. Don Borchardt, Mrs. Stanley Blackstone, Miss Carrie Emmons and Miss Mary Kelsey. Miss Jane Weutrick gave a vocal selection.

The next meeting will be Dec. 13 at the home of Mrs. George Berg, 163 South Foster street. Mrs. Herman Gilbert will lead the devotions.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

Glamorous Gowns, Furs Favored By Debutantes This Season

One hundred New York debutantes in velvet gowns took part in the colorful cotillion, which was a highlight of the Velvet Ball —first big party of the Manhattan winter social season. One of them, Miss Brenda Frazier, is shown in a gown of rosewood velvet, designed with a shirred close-fitting bodice and full sweeping skirt.

Little fur jackets top many of the smartest frocks seen on Fifth avenue these fall days. This one of red fox has a collarless neckline, brief box body and sleeves worked in spiral effect. It steps out with a sheer brown wool frock and walking hat wrapped up in a veil.

Bridegroom Reads Ceremony For Cousin in Columbus

UNUSUAL circumstances surrounded the marriage of a Mansfield girl and an Ashland boy Sunday evening when they were married at the Martin Luther Evangelical Lutheran church by the bride's cousin, Rev. M. David Fetter, who but a few hours before was a bridegroom.

Miss Helen Evelyn Heitz, the bride and daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Heitz, 290½ First avenue, and George Oliver LaRue, son of Mr. and Mrs. George LaRue, Ashland, were married at 8 p. m. yesterday at the Columbus church. The pastor, Rev. Fetter, had been married to Miss Elizabeth Hildebrand, Bellevue, at 3:30 p. m. the same day. The two ceremonies were witnesesd by more than 100 persons from Mansfield and vicinity.

For the candle light service which was read before the altar decorated with white chrysanthemums and pompons and potted palms, Miss Heitz wore a gown of rose moire made in the colonial style with trimmings of dubonnet velvet ribbon. The costume was finished with a bolero jacket and a velvet ribbon. She wore a gift of cameo jewelry from the bridegroom, and carried a colonial style bouquet of gold chrysanthemums and pink rosebuds.

Stephen Heitz, Detroit, Mich., brother of the bride, gave her in marriage as the organ played nuptial selections. Matthew Engleman, cousin of the bride from Canton, sang Brahm's "Lullaby" and "I Love You Truly."

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Fred, of Ashland as best man and John Heitz, brother of the bride, and Martin Moysi, brother-in-law of the bride, as ushers.

Mrs. C. J. Kalstein was matron of honor. She appeared in a floor length gown of teal blue satin made princess style. For the ceremony she carried a colonial style bouquet of pink chrysanthemums and gold pompons.

Both the bride's and the bridegroom's mothers wore gowns of dubonnet with shoulder corsages of sunburst roses and white pompons.

The bride, who made her home at 267 Newman street, was employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. Mr. LaRue is an employe of the Holsum bakery.

The bride wore a black crepe dress with beaded trim, and matching accessories for the wedding trip to Detroit and Canada. After Nov. 9 Mr. and Mrs. LaRue will be at home here at 89 Grace street.

What we called the bouffant skirt about 10 years ago is reappearing in formal attire. Snug at the waist, the skirt flows softly over the hips, and the hemline sometimes widens to yards and yards of material. Girlish and attractive to many, much less trying than the popular drindl.

POP-OUT JEWELRY.

Simplifying the problem of the clothes budgeteer who still likes to have her costume jewelry match her ensembles are the new change-about pins, clips and bracelets. Each piece comes with a set of three jewel colored stones that are adjustable merely by pressing a tiny lever.

FASHION SUBJECT OF REVIEWS PRESENTED

Miss Katherine Hien, Miss Helen Bein Give Reports of Current Books at Monday Study Club Session.

FASHION was the theme of the meeting last night when Mrs. W. E. Slabough, 589 Andover road, entertained members of the Monday Study club. She was assisted by Mrs. Nicholas White. A table decorated with rust and yellow autumn flowers was used for the serving of refreshments. Mrs. Lowell Bourns poured.

The first book reviewed was "Designing Women" by Margaretta Byers, given by Miss Katherine Hien. Miss Byers, according to the report, urges women to study their types and dress accordingly. She speaks of many well-known women, their types, and the make-up and dress they should effect to be most attractive.

Miss Helen Bein then reviewed "Fashion Is Spinach" by Elizabeth Hawes. Miss Hawes, contrary to Miss Byers, recommends dressing as one feels. She suggests that a person dress in accord with the mood she is in. Miss Bein displayed two original Elizabeth Hawes designs to the club members.

A short, routine business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Samuel Theaker, president. The next meeting will be a guest party at which Miss Katherine-Hartman will be the speaker. Mrs. Paul Weir, 550 Edgewood road, will be the hostess for this sesion, Nov. 21. She will be assisted by Miss Florence Conn.

Mrs. Edna Brennan, 11 North Mulberry street, left today for Hamilton, Ont., Canada, and Buffalo, N. Y., where she will spend the next 10 days, and will appear as guest lecturer in several churches.

Sorority Hears Lecture on Law

Mrs. H. L. Creveling, parliamentarian, was the guest speaker last night when members of Delta Theta Tau sorority met at the home of Miss Louise Palmer, West First street. Preceding the talk by Mrs. Creveling, a business meeting was conducted.

The group made further plans for the dance which will be held Nov. 23 at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, and a discussion of charity work for Thanksgiving was conducted.

Arrangements were made for another social and business meeting Nov. 21. Hostesses are Mrs. Israel Dillon, Miss Genieve Diesem, Miss Mary Cox and Miss Marylu Castor. The place will be announced later.

MAKE-UP GADGET.

A smart Fifth avenue beautician is introducing a new trick in make-up for the lips which is one of those little things that count big. The gadget is a small pencil known as a lip-liner and the idea is to use it to outline the lips before applying lipstick. In this way one can be assured of crisp, clean mouth contours eliminating that smeary appearance that frequently results from carelessly applied lipstick.
